LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN HOUSE,

Near Chattanooga, Tenn.

THERE is no more pleasant spot for a Summer residence than the summit of Lookout Mountain, and no more accessible one. It affords great delight to the lovers of nature.

Looking to the North and East, from the MOUNTAIN HOUSE, a beautiful landscape is seen. To the left flows the placid Tennessee, winding its sad way among the hills, till far away in the distance its waters seem to blend with the clouds. Wooded hills and rich valleys, with waving fields of corn and grain, extend as far as the eye can reach in the horizon, where the faint outlines of the Great Smoky Mountains are seen resting upon the sky.

It has all the telegraph and mail facilities, being but an hour's ride from Chattanooga, and is a First-Class Hotel.

Here in the peaceful days before the war, the beauty and intelligence of the South Wilds every Summer to breathe the pure mountain air, and it will soon again be the favorite Summer resort of all who, tired of the heat and bustle of crowded cities, desire relaxation of mind and invigoration of body, amid the finest scenery in the country.

SUNDAY READING.

THINGS ELABORATED FROM THE WORD.

1. That the Spirit of God formed man in the image and likeness of the Elohim, "very good," but without character, susceptible of mortality or of immortality, but then actually in possession of neither.

2. That the subsequent state of Adam upon the earth was predicated on the character he should develope—that is, upon his obedience or disobedience of the Eden law.

3. That by transgression he came under the sentence of death, and all his posterity in him, by which, when nine hundred and thirty years old, he was demolished, and became as he was before his formation, leaving only his character behind, written in the remembrance of God.

4. That he was driven out of the garden that he might not become immortal.

5. That immortality is deathlessness, and consists in life manifested through an incorruptible body.

6. That inasmuch as immortality is no inherent principle of the nature of the animal or natural man, it must be sought for as a "gift" from God "who only hath it," as the "fountain of life."

7. That God purposed in Himself before the world began, to set up a kingdom, the attributes of which should be "glory, honor, incorruptibility and life" to all who should possess it; that these things, therefore, are to be manifested through and in connection with it alone.

8. That this kingdom is terrestrial and has a territory, a king, subjects, constitution, laws, and an executive administration.

9. That this kingdom is David's kingdom—at present non-existent, but soon to be restored.

10. That the territory of this kingdom is the 300,000 square miles of country promised to Abraham, Isaac, Jacob and their seed or descendant, the Messiah; that these all are to possess it coetaneously and forever; that none of them either did or expected to possess it in its corruptible lifetime, and therefore that in the covenant of territory there is a veiled promise of a resurrection to eternal life, and of the coming of Abraham's seed to take possession of it as the inheritance, willed and confirmed to Him by His Father in heaven.

11. That God promised that David's throne and kingdom should endure throughout all generations; that he should never want a man to sit upon his throne, and that David should witness the fulfilment of these things.

THY BEAUTY HAS MADE ME GLAD.

BY MARIANNE FARNINGHAM.

Burst, meadow flowers, in your fragrance and bloom,
Sing, merry birds, over woodland and lea;
Throw off the mantle of darkness and gloom;
Rise, waking earth, from thy sleep, and be free!

Fair little children, old man and young maiden,
Cast off your care and be happy to-day;
Earth is filled with the joy that no words can awaken;
Pass, happy feet, on your love-lighted way.

Stay! Let the strong earthward cords all be riven,
Lifting your thankful gaze up to the skies;
Send all your sweetest songs thither to heaven,
Loving and blessing the Maker, arise!

Fills He the world, that with winter was broken,
Full of a joy that no words can express;
Gives to His jubilant children the token
Of love that awakens to heal and to bless:

Scatters His largess where men, in their sighing,
Turn to His hand as to hand of a friend;
Listens, wherever plaint rises or crying,
Tenderly cares for them e'en to the end.

Cast to the winds and the waves all your sadness;
Sing, happy hearts, in melodious strain;
Is He not filling your hearts with gladness?
Clothes He not earth in young beauty again?

Praises to God be the happy song swelling,
Free from all sadness or sense of earth's pain;
Then in your gladness be heartily telling,
Blessed be God, for His goodness is great.

CHURCH OPERA.

BY DR. I. E. NAGLE.

A few days ago I visited a fashionable church in the great metropolis, and had my hearing tickled with some church opera. The audience was exceedingly select. The sexton was an intellectual looking old gentleman, who ignored the presence of every person except his acquaintances. Happy obliviousness! Hence it occurred that I was obliged to find my way, as best I could, to the gallery. The sacred precincts and closed pew doors down stairs forbade occupation by strangers. Snugly ensconced on the top steps of a passage way to a section of seats in the gallery—which I noticed was also private property—I cast about for items. The jingling chimes that had been barbarously mangling and torturing music (?) out of the bells away up in the steeple, ceased their thrilling clangor.

All became quiet and spiritually soft within the consecrated walls. The misty perfumed light stole through the gorgeously painted windows, and wavering shadows fell wierd and beautiful on the rich folds of silk and satin, that rustled like the soft autumn breeze stirring the leaves in Indian summer time. Mellow, dreamy colorings floated with mysticbeauty through the grand old Gothic church. All there was as saintly and glorious as a poet's fancy could conceive, so dreamy, so beautiful, so luxurious, so soothing, that I bowed my head in silence, and my soul in dreams. Behold! when I awoke, I discovered that sleep had been softly embracing me. I awoke, to hear

The deep-toned organ call
To the organ's bed's sweet chimes,
And softest music fill the royal place.

The spirit of some great old master was pervading the church. The mysterious soul of music seemed to be sobbing and pulsing on the floating, mottled beams of light, that filtered like ghostly shadows beneath that sacred dome. Now, the deep bass tones of the organ's thunder notes pealed and shook the house; anon the softest wail of a dying music zephyr faintly murmured away its last sigh, and calmly died on the twilight's bosom, away off.

"So far as but to seem,
The faint, exquisite music of a dream;"

the moaning tones of the surging music escaped and flew far away over the housetops, and were taken up by long, golden arms to that crimson cloud that was wantonly flashing and blushing in the embrace of the fiery setting sun. Then, soft and gently, there came over the senses stealing, the listening of a voice that pervaded, with its exquisite melody, every nook of the great church. It rose, as the tourist often hears the whisper that precedes a storm in the Alps. Louder and louder it sung and softer it fell, while now these poor little birds are; doubtless several of them have already perished." So he went towards the bush, and looked into the nest; there he saw the birds, and not one of them seemed to have suffered by the loss of its mother.

He was exceedingly astonished, and hid himself to see what would happen.

After a little while he heard a faint cry, and he perceived the bird of the other nest bringing with haste the food she had found, and this she carried between her own and the motherless little ones. There was enough for all; and the poor orphaned birds were not abandoned in their misery.

The man who had mistrusted God told to his neighbor what he had seen, and the latter mustered him, "Why art thou troubled? God never forsakes His children. His love has secrets that we know not of. Let us believe, hope and love, then we may go on our journey in peace. If I die before you, you will be a father to my children; if you die before I will be a father to yours. Or if we should both die while they are still of tenderage, their father will be our Father, who is in heaven."—From the French of Lamennais.

DIE SCHOENSTE PERLE—THE PUREST PEARL.

Dicht an der Kirchthur, auf Kalten Stein.
Beside the church door, aweary and lone,
A blind woman sat on the cold door-stone;
The wind was bitter, the snow fell fast,
And the mocking voice in the fitful blast
Seemed ever to echo her moaning cry,
As she begged for alms of the passers-by;
"Have pity on me, have pity, I pray,
My back is bent, my head is gray."

The bells were ringing the hour of prayer,
And many good people were gathered there,
But, covered with furs, their bodies warm,
They hurried past through the wintry storm.

Some were hoping their souls to save,
And some were thinking of death and the grave,
And, alas! they had no time to heed
The poor soul asking for charity's need.
And some were thinking with beauty's grace,
But closely muffled in veils of lace,
They saw not the sorrow, nor heard the moan
Of her who sat on the cold door-stone.

At last came one of a noble name,
By the city counted the wealthiest dame,
And the pearls that o'er her neck were strung
She proudly threw to the beggar flung.

Then followed a maiden young and fair,
Adorned with gems of rich workmanship,
But her dress was thin, and scanty, and worn,
Not even the beggar's eye could adorn,
With a tearful look and a pitying sigh,
She whispered soft, "No jewels have I,
But I give you my prayers, good friend;" said she,
"And surely I know God listens to me."

On her poor weak hand, so shrunken and small,
The blind woman felt a tear-drop fall,
Then kissed it, and said to the weeping girl,
"It is you that have given the purest pearl."

THE LOVE OF THE BEAUTIFUL.

The love of the beautiful is born with us. Beauty exists everywhere in the external world, that it may appeal to and pleasurably affect our æsthetic perceptions and sensibilities. A beautiful face, or flower, or tree, or landscape, leaves us no election in our appreciative sense of the loveliness of the same. These, and similar types of physical beauty, involuntarily excite our admiration. We come to the beautiful through the eye and the impressionable senses, and not by the measured steps of reason. It strikes us at once or not at all. The fool decides that the rose is beautiful as quick as the philosopher.

The Creator has invested every object in the outward realm with the charm of beauty, that it may answer to our inward perceptions and emotions. Stars gem the heavens and flowers robe the earth with their radiance and loveliness for a purpose. The rainbow paints the sky, the mountain lifts its summit into the clouds, the forest bends before the storm, music wakes the echo of the grave, rivers dance at our feet, and old ocean hymns its eternal bass in Creation's grand anthem—all to impress us with the beautiful, and kindle in our souls divine sources of pleasure and happiness. All these external exhibitions in nature, this wealth of beauty in the heavens above and the earth beneath, can not but be for the ennoblement of our minds and hearts. They must speak, however silently, to the true soul; and that soul in its noblest emotions and feelings must respond to their ministry. Realizing nature as a felt presence and a divine inspiration in its higher manifestation, well might the poet exclaim:

"Live not the stars and mountains? Are the waves
Without a spirit? Are the dropping caves
Without a feeling in their silent tears?
No, no; they woo and clasp us to their spheres,
Dissolve this clog and cloud of clay beneath
Its hour, and merge our soul in the great shore."

WHITE ROBES.

REV. VII. 9.

O land of glorious light,
Where all is fair and bright,
Arrayed in robes of white
Thy ransomed ones appear;
Across their radiant brow
Grief flings no shadow now;
Beneath no cross they bow,
Nor shed one transient tear.

"White robes!" Not armor—no!
While militant below
They fought with many a foe,
And trod the tempter down;
But on life's battle field
They left their sword and shield,
And took—their wounds all healed—
The conqueror's garb and crown!

"White Robes!" Their pilgrim dress
Like that in which we press
Earth's path of wearine s,
Within their grave is cast;
And flowing raiment, fair
As child or bride might share,
At home—sweet home—they wear,
For all their toils are past.

"White robes!" Our garments here
Too oft defiled appear;
But in the heavens that's near
No sin its gladness taints,
Though wrestled thy fair rose;
His hand will adorn thee
With garments of grace.

More precious than treasure,
More vast than the sea,
His love has no measure,
Nor limit to thee.
His easy yoke wearing,
His pleasure abide;
In all thy cross-bearing,
He'll walk by thy side.

Fear not the wild clangor
That Satan may raise,
So God's righteous anger
But passes by thee.
Whom Christ has forgiven
Cross safely along,
Till in the last heaven
He sings the new song.

Then kneel to the Holy,
Bend low to His throne;
There, gracefully bow
Thy sinfulness own;
Th re, Soul! if thou yearnest
For Paradise rest,
There, fervent and earnest,
Prefer thy request.

ERRORS.

The little that I have seen of the world, and known of the history of mankind, teaches me to look upon their errors in sorrow, not in anger. When I take the history of error to heart the man stirred and suffered, and represent to myself the struggles and temptations it passed through; the brief pulsation of joy; the feverish inquietudes of hope and fear; the tears of regret; the feeblenes of purpose; the pressure of the world that has little charity; the desolation of the soul's sanctuary and threatening voices within; health gone; happiness gone; I would fain leave my erring soul of my fellow-man with Him from whose hands it came.—Dr. Chalmers.

THY KINGDOM COME.

BY JEAN INGELOW.

Thy kingdom come,
I long to see Thy face.
The solitary place,
Shall yet be glad for Him, and He shall bless,
(Thy kingdom come) with his revealed face,
The forest; they shall drop their precious gum,
And shout for Him their balm; and he shall yield
The grandeur of his speech to charm the field.

Then all the soothed winds shall drop to listen,
Comforted waters waxen calmshall glisten
With bashful tremblement beneath His smile;
And softer yet shall be
Shall take, and her awful joy repeat.
The laughter of his lips—(Thy kingdom come);
And rills that sit and sigh shall be no longer dumb;
No, they shall shout and shout,
Raining their lovely loyalty along the deep plain
And valleys round about.

And all the well-contented land, made sweet
With flowers or corn opened as it is fed
Shall answer; shout, and make the welkin ring,
And tell the Father's heart to shout, and sing;
Her cup being full to the brim,
Her poverty made rich with Him.

Her yearning satisfied to the utmost sum—
Lift up thy voice, O Earth, prepare thy song,
It shall be worth the longer!
Lift up, O Earth, for He shall come again,
Thy Lord; and He shall reign, and He SHALL reign,
Thy kingdom come."

THE TWO NEIGHBORS.

There were two men who were neighbors, and each of them had a wife and several little children who depended upon them for support.

Now, one of these men was greatly troubled, saying, "If I die, or even if I fall sick, what will become of my wife and children?"

The same thought had come also to the other father, but he let it go again, whispering to himself, "God, who knows all His creatures, and who watches over them, will watch over me also, and over my wife and children." And this man lived in peace, while the other knew neither rest nor joy.

One day when the latter, sad and cast down by reason of his fear, was working in the fields, he saw some birds fly into a bush, come out, and then soon return thither. He approached it and saw two nests, side by side, and in each were several little birds newly hatched and still featherless. When he had returned to his work, he raised his eyes from time to time and looked at the old birds going backwards and forwards, carrying food to their young ones. Presently, just as one of the mothers was about to return with something in her beak, a hawk seized her and carried her away in spite of her struggles and piteous cries. At this sight the man felt more troubled than before, for he thought, "The death of the poor bird is the death of all the little ones. Mine have only me; what will become of them if I fall them?" And all the day he was very sad, and when night came it brought him no relief.

The next day, on returning to the field, he said to himself, "I will see how those poor little birds are; doubtless several of them have already perished." So he went towards the bush, and looked into the nest; there he saw the birds, and not one of them seemed to have suffered by the loss of its mother.

He was exceedingly astonished, and hid himself to see what would happen.

ARKANSAS ITEMS.

—The Fort Smith Herald learns that the cholera has disappeared from Fort Arbuckle.

—The editor of the Fort Smith Herald has been favored with a peach ten and three-fourth inches in circumference and nine ounces in weight. The county in Arkansas, in which Fort Smith is situate, will poll 1200 white and negro votes.

—The Daily Gazette of the 21st says: We are reliably informed that a contract has been concluded between the Memphis and Little Rock railroad and Mr. Denmead, of Georgia, whereby the latter undertakes the repairs of the road between here and Duvall's Bluff, and Madison and Hopefield. The terms are favorable to the company, the contractor furnishing all the means and repaying himself from the net earnings of the road. The work will commence on the 1st of September and will be finished by the 1st of January next. The contractor is a man of means and thoroughly practical and will doubtless do the work within the time specified. In the meantime, Gen. Forrest is pushing ahead his work on the middle division, and by the time the road is repaired to Madison will have about five miles of road bed ready for the iron. We are encouraged at the prospect of reducing the distance of stage travel from here to Memphis, within the coming six months, to twenty-five miles.

—The Washington Telegraph of the 17th gives the following account of a shocking murder which recently occurred in that vicinity: "A young Mr. Turner has, it is said, for some time been paying very marked attention to a Mrs. Phillips, and it was believed by the husband, had been only too highly favored by the lady. Accordingly, Phillips secured the services of a half-witted boy (his brother-in-law,) named Foster, and the lad by his instructions, decoyed Turner into a thick copse near Phillip's house where he expected to see the lady. When the deceived victim had arrived, the cowardly husband shot him in the back with a rifle ball, and at the same time ordered the boy Foster also to shoot the wounded man, which he did with a shot-gun he carried, and the victim died almost instantly. This account is given by Mr. Madison Foster, who was arrested for the murder soon after the body of Turner was found. Phillips is still at large."

A correspondent of the Boston Watchman says: "The day that I arrived in Liverpool I was saluted, while taking a stroll through the city, by a newspaper boy, who shouted out to me, 'Paper, sir; latest news from America, sir; suicide of Andy Johnson, sir.' Had I not been fully aware of my conscientiously reward dishonesty, I should have liked to give the young-ster something for making so good a guess at my politics."

One of the queens of the Parisian demi-monde, a native of Brussels, was arrested, a few weeks ago, on a charge of having participated in a plot involving a very large amount of money, and was thereupon sent to the prison of St. Lazare. The sudden change in her fate, and the harsh treatment she underwent after a life of luxury and dissipation, preyed so fearfully on her mind that she made repeated attempts to commit suicide, and, on being punished severely for these desperate acts, went mad. A number of foreign princes had been among her admirers.

LETTER FROM ARKANSAS.

WASHINGTON, ARK., August 9, 1867.

Dear General: The papers containing the address to the people of Arkansas, came to hand, and meet my views exactly. I think these sentiments are gaining ground. Hon. David Walker, who opposed my views at first slightly, has written to me to say that I am right, and have been from the beginning. Quite a number of others are now satisfied that any reconstruction, except on a radical basis will be accepted by congress, and that the negroes are sure to vote in a body under radical tutilage; satisfied, in short, that they will only humiliate and compromise themselves by any acceptance of the Radical Scheme, embracing an entire square.

TO THE READERS OF THE APPEAL.

The constantly enlarging circulation of the APPEAL, and the generous support given to both the Daily and Weekly issues by city and country, assure the proprietors of the general approval by the public of its course since it came into their hands.

Its Past is the pledge it offers for the Future. It will continue to endeavour, in accordance with the motto which it has adopted, to say those things only that are true and honest. It has but a single client, the People of the South, and it will endeavor to advise its readers wisely. In that it may often fail; but its opinions shall always be honest and conscientious, at least.

Those to whom its conduct is entrusted will continue to endeavor to make the APPEAL acceptable to its readers, and desirable as a medium for advertising. The Masonic column will hereafter appear every Saturday, and on every Sunday reading appropriate to that day; and the proprietors hope, by close attention to the affairs of the papers and office, to still entitle it to the support and confidence of the people, on which alone it depends.

HALF-MEASURES.

[CONCLUDED.]

Some months since, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States refused to hold the Circuit Courts in his Circuit, composed of the States of Virginia and North Carolina, on the ground that these States were under military government, and that it did not comport with the dignity of a Judicial Tribunal of the United States to be held where the military power might interfere with its jurisdiction, and prevent the the execution of its process. It was a terrible confession of the impotence of the Judicial Department of the Government to protect private rights and enforce public justice, in the midst of a revolution.

At length, however, the military of the United States being completely restored, and Congress not having given the military instruments of its mad will any power to interfere with the Courts of the United States, but only to annul and destroy those of the States, the Chief Justice held the Courts on his Circuit. Process afterwards issued in due form of law to execute a judgment or decree of the Circuit Court of the United States for North Carolina; and a military subaltern named FRANK, deeming this a violation of an order of DAN. SICKLES, interfered and prevented the execution of the process. For this act of violence he was, by a Statute of the United States, liable to indictment and severe punishment. Nevertheless, upon reference of the question to DANIEL I, he approved the act of his subaltern, and since then, for some two months or more, the matter has been set on at Washington, without anything definite and decisive being hatched out of it. Two or three weeks ago it was announced that orders had been sent to His Majesty the Emperor of the Carolinas, that the process of the Federal Courts must not be interfered with. The State Courts were abandoned to his tender mercies. Then it was reported that the process from Chief Justice CHASE'S Court still remained impeded by the persistent Sub., and its execution prevented by military injunction. Now it appears that General SICKLES is arguing the point, and that the President is "hearing his views" on the subject of his power to paralyze the process of the Courts of the United States. This we learn from the following paragraph:

WASHINGTON, August 22.—It is already known that instructions some days ago, were sent to Gen. Sickles that process of the federal court must not be interfered with by the military. Recent dispatches from the south say notwithstanding, order No. 10 is still in force. These facts unexplained would convey the impression that Sickles is disposed to be contumacious, and to disregard orders of the war department, but it is positively known that at the instruction of, at his request, are temporarily suspended, in order to hear his views on the subject.

The military rule once was, 'obey first! protest and argue afterwards; but Brevet General SICKLES must be allowed to argue with the President whether he shall obey an order and cease to insult the judicial power of the United States.

Thus rapidly events march; until the legislative department has become so all-powerful that it can, if it pleases, at any moment depose the President, and vest the Executive power in Consuls or a Committee of Public Safety, with the consent and approval of a majority of the people of the Northern States.

The President of the United States was not compelled to become a candidate for the Vice-Presidency. He coveted the office, and he still more coveted the Presidency. He sought the position he holds, and if he does not defend its just and Constitutional prerogatives, he will be deemed by history to have been unworthy of the place he held and could not fill. To be allowed to serve out his term, submissive to the edicts of his masters, and then to subside amid general contempt into insignificance, would be a miserable destiny: and if the President does not see to it, it will overtake him. He received the Presidential office with its prerogatives and powers not only not impaired or diminished, but even enlarged beyond their former greatness. It will be little honor to him to transmit it to his successors, with its chief powers and honours shorn away, and the flowers of the prerogative of the Chief Magistracy withered. It would be far better at once to imitate Richard Croinwell. A President, like a King, holding his office by sufferance, and himself into a mere submissive instrument of an arrogant and imperious legislature, is one of the saddest sights in this world. He is like a noble who proves unworthy of his ancestors and of whom his posterity will be ashamed.

But there are far higher and more cogent reasons why the President should, at all hazards and to the last extremity, defend his prerogatives and refuse to succumb to the unconstitutional edicts of Congress. These reasons may be found in the passages from the Federalist, which we have quoted.

The tendency of the Legislative authority always is to encroach upon the Executive and the Judiciary, and disturb that just equilibrium of powers on which the continuance of liberty depends. The freedom of a people is as much endangered and as soon wrested from them, by these usurpations, as by those of a single tyrant. In defending his own just and Constitutional prerogatives, the President is the Defender of the Constitution and of the rights and liberties of the people, even against themselves. He has accepted that post, and he holds it as a soldier holds one, on maintaining which the salvation of an army depends. The soldier, detachment, battalion or brigade so posted, must not weigh life in the scales against duty. He must say, like the Roman, embarking in a storm when the public service demanded it, "It is necessary I should go: it is not necessary I should live." If the President does not defend, even with his life, his just prerogatives against encroachment, and the Constitution against violence, he deserts his post, betrays his trust, and dishonours himself. That hydra, a Legislature that grasps at all the powers of the Government, is never conciliated by concessions and submission. On the contrary, no sooner is one demand or encroachment yielded to, than it makes another, and another, each more exorbitant than its predecessor; and with every one the victim becomes less and less able to resist, until at last the struggle ends in complete subjugation.

One purpose for which the President was invested with the veto power, was, as we have seen, that he might defend with it his constitutional rights and powers against legislative encroachment: another was that he might protect the Constitution against violation, and the rights of the States and of citizens against legislative depredations. It has proven utterly impotent for either purpose. Congress has wrested from him his prerogatives, or so limited them, equally in violation of the Constitution; as to make them worthless, in order to be enabled, without let or hindrance, to violate the Constitution in other respects, and to change the Government into a tyranny of the majority, and unconstitutionally destroy States, establish despotisms, and create negro republics.

When the Congress passed the Tenure-of-office bill, the President interposed his veto, demonstrating the unconstitutionality of the bill, and that it was an intolerable encroachment upon his powers, rights and prerogative. Yet the bill became a law.

So he attempted to prevent by his veto the passage of the Reconstruction act, the supplement to it, and that explanatory of it, passed at the last session of Congress. In each case his veto was treated with contempt, and these unconstitutional measures became statutes.

The President is not at liberty to execute a law that openly violates the Constitution. He is sworn not to do so; for he is sworn to preserve, protect and defend that Constitution. Whenever, in executing the Reconstruction acts, he was required to do any act violative of a constitutional provision or of a right under the Constitution or its amendments, he should at once have halted. Although Congress had disregarded his veto, they were powerless to create any obligation or duty, imposed on him, to destroy a constitutional right, or violate a constitutional prohibition. Nor, if he were satisfied of the unconstitutionality of any part of either of these acts, was he at liberty to execute it, until the Supreme Court should decide it unconstitutional. He was necessarily compelled to decide the question for himself, because the Legislature could not give him absolution for the guilt of perjury, or for that of violating the supreme law which he had sworn to preserve, protect and defend. The Order of JESUS demanded implicit and unreasoning obedience of all its members: but the Constitution does not demand that of the Legislature of the Executive.

As to his powers and prerogatives, the Legislature has no right to define their limits and boundaries, much less to diminish and encroach on them. A law that attempts to do either, passed over the veto, is void. The Legislature can no more define authoritatively the boundaries of the Executive Power, than the Executive can define those of the Legislative power. They are co-ordinate Departments, each independent of the other, and each vested with the entirety of its branch of powers. When the Legislature encroaches on the prerogatives of the Executive, there is neither time nor need to await the action of the Judiciary. It has as little power as the Legislature to determine the extent of the Executive power, and if it were to hold valid an act of the Legislature encroaching on the Executive, the decision would be a nullity.

For if it were not so, if the powers of the Executive, like those of the judiciary, were not beyond the reach of the legislature,—if the latter could define the limits and boundaries of either, or if the judiciary could define those of either of the other departments, so as to bind that other, either the Legislature or Judiciary might, usurping by degrees, under the pretence of definition, rob or pilfer from the Executive his most salutary and necessary powers.

The Legislature has, no power or right whatever to enact that the President shall not exercise any particular portion of the Executive power. It is a part of that power to remove subordinate Executive officers from office; and the Constitution does not require the assent of the Senate to the execution of that power. Congress could not enact, over the President's veto, that he should not remove a Secretary, or any other officer, during its recess. The question of the validity of that prohibition cannot be submitted to the Supreme Court. No case can be made between the President and Congress, for the Court to decide. If the party removed asked the Supreme Court for a mandamus to the President, commanding him to re-instate him, the President would refuse to obey it, and would, in that, only maintain his just prerogative. The Court would not issue the writ. It would have no power to enforce obedience. All that is well settled.

The truth is, that each Department is, in the last resort, the judge of the extent of its own powers, and neither can limit unconstitutional and knows to be so. Congress has no power whatever, to require him to assist in establishing a military despotism any where, or in depriving freemen of the privilege of the writ of Habeas Corpus, and trial by jury. They cannot impose it on him, the President of a Republic composed of a Union of States, to exercise the powers of CÆSAR, or to permit an officer under him to do so. They are utterly without power to invest him or a military officer under him with the powers of legislation; they cannot empower, and much less require him to create or to permit a General to create military commissions in time of peace, for the trial of citizens and civilians, either for known or newly created offences; because it would be to empower or constrain him to commit an outrage and a crime. They cannot give an Executive officer under him power to interfere with the proceedings of Courts of justice, or themselves to judge between citizens, or prevent the execution of the laws of a State or of the process of a Court. In short, although his veto proves ineffectual, and for some purposes an unconstitutional statute may have effect until annulled by the Judiciary, they have not the power to require him to perform an unconstitutional act, or one contrary to the rights guaranteed by Magna Charta and the amendments to the Constitution, or to permit any officer of his department, under him, to do so, or to exercise despotic powers. If he does it, he does it in his own wrong; for no obligation rests upon him, not even to the weight of an infinitesimal particle of down, to do or permit to be done any such act. He cannot be forced to be a party to the subversion of the Constitution or the assassination of liberty, or the criminal violation of private rights, or an accomplice and accessary in either. His oath not to do either is registered in heaven. IS HE KEEPING THAT OATH NOW?

The President is invested by the Constitution with large powers, to be exercised for the permanent welfare of the country, the rights of the States, and the rights guaranteed to individuals; and he is of course burthened with correspondent responsibilities, from which he cannot honorably or creditably escape.

The Congress was possessed of the power to treat the Southern States as having by their own act ceased to be members of the Union, and to establish governments over them, as Provinces or conquered territory, and, if it pleased, utterly to refuse to admit them again into the Union as States.

It had the power to commit the Executive functions of government, in these Provinces, to a military commandant or Governor, appointed by and acting under the President. It had the power to annul or continue the legislatures, to continue, or to annul, or change or add to the laws in force at the time of the conquest: but it could not delegate that power to a military officer. It could grant such legislative powers, more or less extensive, to such provincial legislative bodies as it should please to provide for. Upon its formal declaration that the Provinces were no longer States in Union, the circuit and district courts of the United States in them would at once cease. The Supreme Court would of necessity be governed, in that respect by the action of the Legislature, and could not review its decision. Upon that declaration, the Congress could create territorial or provincial courts, in every county, if it pleased, and make the tenure of office of the judges a limited one, and define their jurisdiction in civil and criminal matters.

But when once these Courts were established, the Military Governor could not be empowered to review their decisions, or to impede the execution of their process, mesne or final. The judicial functions must, under the Constitution and by the spirit of our system of government, belong exclusively to the judiciary. Congress could give the Governor an absolute veto, if it pleased, on the action of the Legislature; but they could no more invest him with legislative than with judicial powers. If they could do either, they could do both, concentrate all powers in his hands, and thus create an unmitigated despotism. If Congress undertook to create such a despotism, by an act passed in spite of the President's veto, it would be his sworn duty to refuse to execute it or permit it to be executed. He is to see the laws faithfully executed; but he is sworn to preserve the Constitution, and a Statute that violates the Constitution is not a law, but a nullity.

Congress did not choose to change the laws of the conquered States. It did not choose to annul their Legislatures. It did not even declare that they were not States, but only that their Governments were illegal, and then re-created and re-established those Governments by adopting them, just as they stood, as provisional Governments. They could not decide them illegal, and so annul their past action; for that is an exercise of judicial power, and Congress possesses none. But they could, assigning it, whether it were true or false, as a reason, abolish those Governments and re-establish them as provisional.

This they did. They created no new tribunals, to enforce the civil or criminal code. They undertook to empower the military commandants to do this; but it is contrary to the Constitution and the spirit of English liberty to subject citizens in time of peace to military jurisdiction, and take from them the right of trial by jury. They declared that the conquered States were placed under the military authority of the United States. That placed them under the power of the President, who has the whole Executive power; but it could not authorize him to exercise powers prohibited by the Constitution.

The President owes it to himself to assert his prerogatives to their full extent, especially in the matter of removal from office, and compelling the obedience of his military subordinates. He owes it to himself and to the Constitution, and to the people and their posterity, to resist all encroachments on his powers and rights as the Chief Magistrate in whom the executive power of the nation is vested; and to refuse to obey the unconstitutional enactments of passion and folly. He stands in the breach battered in the wall of the Constitution, and must, if necessary, fall and die there. He occupies a great place, and must be great himself, or he will be nothing.

Half-measures are useless. What is wanted is that he should be President in fact as well as in name. The Commandants of Districts are officers of the army. It is the military authority that governs,—not Congress, by these as its agents. That is nonsense. The President should, by a general order, so declare, define and assert his lawful prerogatives, and peremptorily prohibit the doing of any acts whatever, by his subordinates, contrary to the provisions of the Constitution. He should declare that Constitution in force in the conquered country, and that under it alone Congress possesses any powers of legislation. He should forbid any legislation by the Military Commandants, the trial of citizens by Courts Martial or Military Commissions or Freedmen's Bureau officers in uniform. He should forbid any interference with the process, jurisdiction or judgments of the Courts any order staying the collection of debts or violating the obligation of contracts all unlawful arrests and warrants, and refusals to obey the mandates of writs of Habeas Corpus, as also all attempts to settle private rights in behalf of either the white or the black, except in conformity to law, and to legislate negroes into railroad cars, steamboat cabins, hotels and places of public amusement, from all which the proprietors have an undoubted right to exclude them. The decisions that have maintained the obligation of common carriers of passengers to take and convey any who offer, are humbugs. A steamboat Captain is not compellable to take a low gambler or prostitute, or one who he knows will malign his boat in some journal of which he is a correspondent. A railroad conductor is no more bound to admit a filthy, beastly scavenger into a car among gentlemen and ladies, than a hotel-keeper is to seat him at the table with persons of refinement and good breeding.

The President should declare that he will not suspend the privilege of the writ of Habeas Corpus, nor allow it to be done; nor allow free speech and the freedom of the press to be interfered with, or civil officers to be menaced with deprivation of office, if they dare advise the people what peaceable course to follow in regard to reconstruction. He ought to annul every unconstitutional act that has been done by the District Commanders: and especially revise their action in regard to the removal of officers civil and judicial, and declare that they possessed no power of removal or appointment; but that those powers belong to himself alone.

The Radical Press would rave against him like madmen, and the Radical Congress would probably undertake to play the part of the Long Parliament and National Convention. So much the better; for as long as the President tamely acquiesces in its usurpations and obeys its imperious and insulting edicts, or only argues with it, so long the Northern people will believe that Congress is in the right in the controversy, or, at least, that the questions are of no vital interest or importance. They always incline to side with the party that conquers. They always turn against the party that cries for quarter. But they admire pluck and courage, especially in one against many; and would much rather follow one bold leader, who dares to make a coup d'etat, than an assembly of demagogues, babblers and brawlers, half of whom they cannot but despise. Mr. President, that Irishman compressed a great deal of wisdom into a sentence, who said, "The best way to avoid danger, is to meet it plump in the face."

NEW BOOKS.

Messrs. HURD & HOUGHTON, No. 459 Broome street, New York, are publishing a very beautifully and tastily bound uniform edition of all DICKENS' works, for which they demand the very reasonable price of $1 50 per volume. For Libraries, both public and private, these books are especially adapted, and the style of illustration and typographical execution of such volumes of the series as we have examined, viz: "DOMBEY & SON," "MARTIN CHUZZLEWIT," and "OLIVER TWIST" and "Great Expectations" in one cover, really leave nothing to be desired in these particulars. They may be had of Messrs. GEORGE PATTISON & Co., No. 317½ Main street, at publishers' prices.

"MARIE ANTOINETTE and her Son," is the title of LOUISA MULBACH'S last historical romance, and in many respects it is the most intensely interesting of the several bright emanations from her pen; charming as we found her "JOSEPH II," we think this volume fully equal to it, if not superior to that delightfully related narrative of the personal characteristics of that amiable King and the idolized Queen Mother, MARIA THERESA. Messrs. PATTISON & Co. also have this work.

NEW ORLEANS, August 24.—The following order was issued to-day:

Nineteen deaths from yellow fever yesterday, reported by the board of health, nine from other fevers.

WASHINGTON, August 24.—N. G. Taylor, commissioner of Indian affairs, returned to this city on private business, and will rejoin the Indian commission in a few days. If the commissioners cannot fully harmonize all differences, they will endeavor to separate the peaceful from the hostile Indians, and place the former on their reservations. The commissioners are represented to be united in the belief that their efforts will be successful. Gen. Sherman is not so hopeful as they are, but is doing all in his power to assist them in the accomplishment of their purpose.

A dispatch from Gen. Sheridan, dated New Orleans, August 19th, says the yellow fever has abated very little at Galveston and Indianola. It has been very bad, and interfered to some extent with the public service from the stampede of employees. In New Orleans it has yet taken hold of but two companies, and now there are some signs of improvement. We have four officers down with it, but only Smith, son of C. F. Smith, very dangerously. Lieut. Asoph, of the engineers, is very ill, disease from here to Fort Morgan and there died. A telegram dated the 24th announces a change for the better in Lieut. Smith's case. There is much distress among officers and their families on account of the fever at Galveston.

Col. Best's wife is dead; also Lieut. Kiskirun's. Col. A. Best is very low. Mrs. Dr. Adams is very low; Col. Howell is better; Gen. Mower is better. Five other officers are down with it, and all are doing well.

(Signed) P. H. SHERIDAN.

LOUISVILLE, August 23.—River falling very slowly, with three feet in the canal.

GALVESTON, August 24.—Over one hundred principal citizens of Corpus Christi, including the Presbyterian and Methodist ministers, druggists, merchants, &c., have died from yellow fever. The disease is abating here, only nineteen interments yesterday.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, August 24.—The Saltzburg conference continues to engross the public attention. It is rumored to-day that an understanding was arrived at between Napoleon and Francis Joseph, not only in regard to the formation of a Southern German confederation, but also to resist any intervention in the eastern question.

It was also argued that the states forming South Germany should remain in Zolvereln so long as Prussia abides by the treaty of Prague.

In regard to the Schleswig question it was purposed that Francis Joseph should interpose good offices, and that on the other hand Denmark should make considerable concession in her demand.

The Mexican question also came up for consideration. The body of Maximilian was to be demanded from the Mexicans by France and Austria, and the citizens of both empires to be protected at all hazards.

The mutual system has deservedly become the most popular mode of insurance in the United States, and is the one embraced by those best informed upon the subject, and who appreciate the safe, secure, perpetuity and economy. In a purely mutual company the assured derives all the advantages which can be realized from an insurance, and at the lowest rates, or exact cost, paying no tribute or profits to the proprietors or stockholders for, perhaps, an inadequate capital or security. Cheapness combined with security, and a certainty of accomplishing the object in view, are the essential elements sought for, and they may be found eminently existing in a well conducted mutual. All parties insuring in this company become members of the company and are directly intrusted in its success. Call at the office of the company for full information, whereby all real estate insurers can save FIFTY per cent. of their insurance account.

WANTED—THE PATENT

AURORA OIL.

We want men everywhere to study their own INTEREST. The right to manufacture and sell the Patent Aurora Oil in a single county will make more money by purchasers in three months than the largest farm in your State will make in a whole year. The Aurora Oil actually costs less than one-half the price of Coal Oil, and the illuminating power of the Aurora Oil is as much superior to the Coal Oil as the Coal Oil is to a tallow candle, and is NO MORE explosive than a tallow candle. Any Lamp that will burn Coal Oil will burn the Aurora Oil. It does not smoke the chimney—it does not smell—it will not grease or stain the finest linen—not even white cloth. The material for its manufacture is inexhaustible. One man can make seventy-five barrels per day. No machinery required. We will pay your fare to and from the city of Memphis and bills while here, if we cannot prove all, and even more, than we have stated. A single county is a small fortune to the man of enterprise, and the right to a State is worth a world.

PUBLIC WORSHIP at Central church, Union street, at 10½ o'clock. Services by Rev. P. Tuggle.

THE Rev. Dr. Ford having returned, will preach in the Tabernacle at the usual hours morning and night.

CALVARY CHURCH.—Services in this church this morning at 10½ o'clock by Rev. Mr. Simpson.

RELIGIOUS NOTICE.—Eld. T. W. Caskey will preach at the Christian church, corner Linden and Mulberry streets, to-day at 10½ o'clock a.m., and at 8 o'clock p.m.

RELIGIOUS NOTICE.—The Rev. J. N. Waddel, D. D., chancellor of the University of Mississippi, will preach in the Second Presbyterian church, on the corner of Main and Beal streets, to-day at 10½, and this evening at 8 o'clock.

MINSTRELS COMING.—La Rue's carnival minstrels are announced to appear at the Greenlaw Opera House, commencing next Tuesday evening.

"THE COMMON LAW COURT, Judge Thomas G. Smith presiding, will convene in the Greenlaw block to-morrow.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.—Rev. A. C. Caperton will supply the place of the pastor in the pulpit this morning at 10½ o'clock, and preach in Chelsea at 8 o'clock this evening.

RECONSTRUCTION.—Hon. James Alcorn is announced to speak in our neighboring village of Hernando next Tuesday week, on the reconstruction of Mississippi.

FOR RALEIGH.—A large number of persons contemplate making a trip to Raleigh Springs. Two special trains will depart to accommodate them.

A SAVAGE MACKEREL.—Jimmy Cassidy, a twelve year old mackerel, was arrested yesterday for drawing a stiletto on Stadford Payne and threatening to stab him.

A NEW SCHOOL.—An excellent school for boys under the direction of the clergy of St. Peter's Catholic church, will be opened on Main street, between Market and Winchester to-morrow morning.

RELEASED.—Sam Dawson, the negro who shot another negro named Perkins, on Alabama street a few nights since, has been released at the request of the prosecutor. He was not even fined for shooting in the corporation.

A REGATTA.—Arrangements for a grand regatta on the Mississippi are being made by the Memphis boat club, which will come off about the 15th of next month. This is something new here, and will doubtless be appreciated.

MURDERER COMMITED.—Sam. Holcomb, the old negro who killed Jesse Thomas in the stockyard near Jefferson street, has been committed to the county jail to await trial at the next session of the criminal court.

MATRIMONIAL.—As evidence of the dull times in Memphis, we would state that only sixteen marriage licenses were issued during the week. During the business season Mr. League generally issues papers to double that amount.

IN A BAD FIX.—Some rascal unknown, entered the room of an old gentleman who resides at No. 413 Second street, Friday night, and confiscated all his clothing. Yesterday morning he had to borrow some garments from a friend before he could respond to the summons of the breakfast bell.

COUNTY WARRANTS LOST.—Alderman J. J. Powers has lost twenty-five county warrants for five hundred dollars each. They are numbered from forty-nine to seventy-three, inclusive. He has ordered the county treasurer to refuse payment, and will give a liberal reward to any person returning them to him.

CLEANING THE LAMPS.—About three weeks since a resolution was passed by the board of aldermen directing that the street lamps should be cleaned, but they remain in the same unwashed condition and look as if they had been painted a dirt color. In other cities the street lamps are cleaned regularly by the lamp lighter.

POLICEMEN FOR CHELSEA.—We have heard it stated that, in view of the many disturbances created by the disorderly negroes in Chelsea, Superintendent Beaumont contemplates appointing five policemen to watch over that portion of his dominions. Whether they are to be paid by the tax collector on privileges or the county commissioners, we are unable to state.

SHOOTING WITH INTENT TO KILL.—A magisterial warrant has been issued in the case of Alonzo C. Russell, who shot Mike Harrington, on South street, Friday night, and he will be tried to-morrow or next day. Harrington's wound is doing well. Russell was drunk when he fired the shot.

AFTER BEAUMONT.—The city attorney will apply for a mandamus, to-morrow, to compel Superintendent Beaumont to comply with that portion of the metropolitan police law which requires him and every other member of the force to make monthly reports to the mayor of all moneys, rewards, etc., received by them.

A DIFFERENCE.—If the railroad track on Main street is torn up and left out in the cold, it will make quite a difference to property holders in the amount they will have to pay for paving. They have been expecting the railroad company to pave two feet on each side of the track, while under the new arrangement the property holders will have to pay for the paving to the center of the street.

SAFE ROBBERY.—While Mr. Eichberg, corner of Main and Washington streets, was at dinner yesterday, some person abstracted forty-five dollars from the safe, which had been left open. The clerks in the store did not observe any person near the safe during Mr. Eichberg's absence.

CHATHAM SALOON.—John Myers opens a new saloon as agent for Mr. Droesher, Monday morning, in the alley between Monroe and Front row and Madison and Monroe streets. He has had considerable experience in the line, and hopes by close attention, and by keeping pure, good liquors, to merit the patronage of his many friend.

TOURNAMENT AT BIG CREEK.—A grand tournament will take place near the residence of J. W. Ward, on Big Creek, about twelve miles from Memphis, on Tuesday, September 5th, the proceeds to be devoted to benevolent purposes. Four prizes are offered, the lists being open to the world. The first prize will be a three hundred dollar saddle-horse; second prize, a two hundred dollar gold watch; third prize, a fine saddle and bridle; fourth prize, a pair of silver spurs for the most graceful rider. Hon. A. H. Douglas is to be the orator of the day.

FIRES YESTERDAY.—The alarm of fire about eight o'clock last evening, was caused by flames issuing from Jake Steinkuhl's stable on the alley running from Exchange to Market streets, between Main and Second. The fire was promptly subdued by the firemen with buckets of water. The stable was set on fire from the outside, coal oil being used by the incendiary. The damage is very light. A defective stovepipe set fire to the roof of a house on Jefferson street, near the Nicolson pavement commenced; and on Saturday evening, 7 o'clock, the paving was entirely finished—one block of the city, in four days, of the handsomest pavement yet made is executed! All praise is due to Taylor, McBean & Co., contractors, and to their efficient and gentlemanly assistant general force, to the saw mill that cut the lumber in the same time, and to J. Odel, who did all the hauling of lumber, blocks, sand and gravel in the time. Can St. Louis or Chicago beat this? Can Forrest, Montgomery & Co., when they get fairly to work lay one block per week including the cross street? If so, then the distance from Madison street, on Main, to South, being twelve blocks, if commenced by the first of September, and the work progress both ways on Main street, will be completed in three months working time. If one block only, on Main street, be executed in the time by F. M. & Co., they may wear the horns! (as a boatman would say.) Will not the Southern Express company make a polite congé to the city and pavement contractors for getting their office on north Court out of the mud and mire? Ye local thinks so.

Mr. D. H. Townsend, the well known cotton factor and commission merchant, has issued a circular to his old friends and the public, informing them that he is still in the land of the living and carrying on business at No. 256 Front street. Mr. Townsend is one of our old merchants, who has acquired a well deserved reputation for promptness and reliability in his dealings with his patrons.

When You Want something really delicious to clean your throat of the dust and cool off the inner man, you should call at Miller's saloon, in Whisky Chute. They dish up the liquids in the right kind of style there. If you doubt it, call and take observations.

Those residing in malarious districts should never be without the Texas Tonic Syrup. It is a medicine at once pleasant and reliable, and will not only break chills, but will cure them.

MANSFIELD & HIGBEE,
Sole Proprietors.

Hesperian Pills, the "Sure Cure for Ague," have been tested in thousands of cases, and have never failed to effect a cure. Ask for Hesperian Pills. Price, $1, at the drug stores. Wm. Dench & Co., Proprietors.

THE ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION IN CHELSEA.—Another negro was arrested yesterday for being concerned in the attempt to assassinate Mr. Scudder, in Chelsea, the particulars of which we published yesterday. Three of the rascals are now in jail, and will be examined before Esquire Miller on Monday.

BURGLAR SHOT AT.—A gentleman residing on Monroe street, on Friday night endeavored to imitate the good example set by Mr. Bryson, and fired two shots at a burglariously inclined individual, who was prowling around his premises. Unfortunately neither of the shots touched the target, for the burglar departed at a double quick.

FIRE DISTRICTS.—William Rehoe, fire warden, has divided the city into four fire districts, as follows: The first district comprises that portion of town north of Poplar street, the second district extends from Poplar to Madison street, third district from Madison to Beal street, and the fourth district south of Beal street. In future, after the fire alarm is sounded at the engine house, the number of the district in which the fire is supposed to be will be tapped on the bells.

WANTED TO SHOOT A POLICEMAN.—A colored individual named Samuel Letcher was drunk and disorderly on the streets yesterday. When officer W. H. Smith started to arrest him, the colored gentleman said he would not be arrested, and drew a revolver on the policeman, who quickly wrested it from his hand and conveyed him to the station house. Nearly every negro in the city carries a pistol at the present time. It should be put a stop to.

EMMONS & SON, No. 10 Jefferson street and 393 Main street, have received the New York Ledger, Chimney Corner, Literary Album, Boston Pilot, New York Clipper, Metropolitan Record, Turf, Field and Farm, Irish People, Irish American, Scientific American, Frank Leslie, Boys' and Girls' Weekly, Staats Zeitung, Country Gentleman, Home Journal, London News, London Weekly Times, London Art Journal for August, Harper's Magazine, Frank Leslie's Lady's Book, all for September, and dailies from everywhere.

LATE PAPERS.—It affords us much pleasure to again express our obligations to the enterprising and gentlemanly agent of the Southern express, E. McCormick, Esq., for New Orleans, Cincinnati and Mobile papers of the 23d, and Louisville papers of yesterday. With such expedition on the part of the Southern express company, there is very little use for the telegraph, much less mails.

THE LAST COLORED TRAGEDY.—We announced yesterday that a difficulty had occurred between two negroes in the rear of the Charleston depot, when one of them, named Wm. Sevier, had killed the other with a rifle. An inquest was held on the body of Daniel Dawkins, the slain negro, yesterday, when a verdict that he came to his death at the hands of Sevier was rendered.

A HOME INSURANCE COMPANY.—In another column of the APPEAL may be found the advertisement of the Tennessee State Mutual Fire Insurance Company, whose office is in the Gayoso Hotel Building, corner of Court and Main streets. Jesse Page, jr., is president; A. L. Lacey, vice-president; J. M. Keating, secretary, and C. J. Selden, treasurer of the company, which offers superior inducements to persons to insure against losses from fire. The names of the directory of the company, is a guarantee that the business will be conducted in the right kind of style.

A RELIABLE HOUSE.—We take particular pleasure in recommending to our readers the hardware establishment of John L. Eichberg, corner of Main and Washington streets. There may be found a full assortment of iron, tin and copper ware, cutlery and other things usually kept in a first class hardware house. Mr. Eichberg also pays particular attention to tin roofing, which he finishes in a style that gives satisfaction. Builders and others contemplating putting tin roofs on houses, will do well to call and see him, while housekeepers may save money by visiting his store and examining the fine stock and the price of the various articles.

PETTY THIEVING.—Morris Doyle, colored, has been committed for trial, at the municipal court, for stealing six dollars and a half from Wm. Ray, at the Poplar street market house. Jennie Brunmer, a colored servant of John Heseli, Winchester street, has been arrested for confiscating a five dollar bill from her employer. A negro, named Henry Henderson is awaiting trial for snatching a pair of shoes from a Main street store. Clinton Shaw has been committed for trial by Esquire Goodlett, for stealing saw, iron, etc., from his employer. A negro named John Henry was arrested yesterday for stealing money from A. Boro.

A MAGNIFICENT SCHEME.—We call the attention of our readers to the four distributions of premiums of the Mississippi Agricultural etc. Aid Society, which are advertised in this morning's APPEAL. All of these distributions are in one grand combination scheme, and the amount to be distributed is more than a quarter of a million of dollars. The schemes increase in value at each drawing, and one certificate entitles the holder to a chance in each drawing. The chances of drawing a prize are about as one to three and a quarter, and no premium will be less than the outlay. The drawing is not far distant, for September, and we advise those who wish to invest, to call at once at the office of the society's agent, Leon Trousdale, 237 Main street, up stairs.

POLICE COURT.—Thirty-six cases were on the police court docket yesterday in the following order: Four white boys, of the mackerel brigade, were fined $25 each, and went on the chaingang for fifty-three days in default of payment. Two fancy ladies were fined $10 each for walking the streets after nine o'clock at night contrary to the ordinance, etc. A white man and a negro were fined $25 each for carrying concealed weapons; the white man paid up, but the negro went on the chaingang for fifty-three days. A white man and a colored female for fighting, fined $25 and let loose; he shelled out the greenbacks while she went to jail in default of payment. Several cases of big and little drunks, fights, etc., were disposed of, the fines imposed totalling $442, of which $60 were collected.

DIAMONDS TRUMPS.—By reference to our new advertisements, it will be seen that the agency of the celebrated Diamond line has fallen into very proper hands, and that the line is not apt to lose any of its prestige or favor while managed by Capt. Flem. Calvert. For the speedy and safe transportation of freight, as well as the great advantage possessed in insurance, this line stands unrivalled, not only for the shipment of cotton from Memphis to the east, but case goods of all kinds, bought in either the New York, Boston or any other market, will reach this city quicker and safer and with less damage than by any other route. Mr. Calvert will offer the balance of our stock lower than ever.

North American.—H. P. Butler, Esq., the popular agent of the North American Life Insurance company, in last night by the Memphis and Ohio railroad, on a brief trip north, to recruit. GROVER & BAKER'S
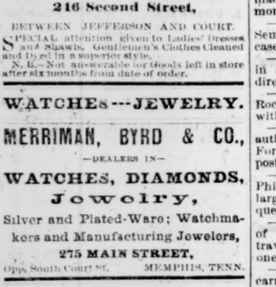
Celebrated
Elastic Stitch and Lock Stitch



SEWING MACHINES.
Why the Grover & Baker Machine is Best.
1. It is more simple, durable, and less liable to derangement than others.
2. It sews from ordinary spools, and no rewinding of thread is necessary.
3. It sews with equal facility all fabrics, the most delicate and the heaviest, and with all kinds of thread, silk, cotton or linen.
4. Its seam is so strong and elastic that it never breaks, even on the bias.
5. It fastens both ends of the seam by its own operation.
6. Its seam, though cut at every stitch, remains firm, and neither runs or ravels in wear.
7. Its seam is more plump and beautiful, and remains its beautiful beauty after washing better than any other.
8. Its seam can be removed in altering garments, after wearing, and other machines without picking or cutting them.
9. Watching and varying the tensions upon the thread to accommodate it to other machines is unnecessary in this. The tension being once adjusted on the Grover and Baker Machine any amount of sewing may be done without change.
10. It makes beautiful embroidery without any change of arrangement, simply by inserting threads of suitable sizes and colors for this purpose. It is the only machine that both embroiders and sews.

MEMPHIS APPEAL

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—People are arriving at Saratoga at the rate of 1750 per day.

—A dance of seventy-eight recently rode to the top of Mount Washington.

—A firm at Florence, Mass., is converting bone dust and ivory filings into solid ivory.

—The registration in North Carolina will show a balance of about 12,000 in favor of the whites.

—Lots are advertised for sale in Lincoln, the new capital of Nebraska.

—The number of registered voters in Louisiana, according to act of congress, is a little over 100,000.

—The glut of money in England is becoming frightful.

—Two hundred thousand cigars are made at the Michigan state prison per month.

—The cholera is raging among the Seminole Indians. About twenty new cases occur daily.

—The city of St. Paul has voted $200,000 in aid of a railroad from that point directly toward Lake Superior.

—The track layers on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad are now within ten miles of Desmoines.

—Western dispatches say the military authorities are arming all the citizens at Fort Sedgwick for the protection of that post.

—The Cheyenne road from Laporte to Phil Kearney is impassable except for large parties, and even they are frequently attacked.

—Steak and tea are served on the top of Mount Washington for $1 50. A traveler says the former can be eaten by one who has a cold.

—Advertisements for proposals to carry the mails on the Mississippi river from New Orleans to Vicksburg, will be issued immediately.

—A negro was killed and a white man seriously injured by a collision of trains on the Richmond and Danville railroad, on the 16th.

—An unusual interest is manifested among the Norwegians of Minnesota, in the erection of church edifices. In most cases these churches are quite large, well built, and reflect much credit upon that people.

—The political contest is becoming highly exciting in California as the election draws near. The independents continue their opposition to Gorham.

—As the passengers were going on board the steamer South America, in North river, Friday, the gang plank gave way, precipitating about thirty into the water. Fortunately, no lives were lost.

—The negroes of Atlanta, Ga., have gone into the base ball business, and a deputation from one of the clubs there is on a visit to Augusta. They are dressed in red pants and sky-blue jackets.

—There were three applicants for the Chicago postmastership before the recovery of the body of the late incumbent.

—It is said that the fair grounds at New Orleans are to have an artificial lake, streams, hills, etc., and that they are to be "sown in umbrageous trees."

—Portugal has abolished slavery and capital punishment, and Victor Hugo, in a rhapsodical letter, says Portugal stands at the head of Europe.

—Advices from New Orleans say that Sheridan was about to remove Sheriff Hayes, of that city, when removed himself.

—There is a gentleman at Saratoga with an ear trumpet so immense that when it rains he sticks his cane into it and uses it for an umbrella.

—A resolution was offered in a democratic convention in Pittsburg, Friday, approving the course of the president, but, after a rather bitter discussion, it was laid on the table.

—A dispatch from Punta Rosa, Fla., says that the telegraph cable from Key West to Havana, was recovered and spliced on Sunday, and was working well.

—A dispatch from Fort Hays on the 14th, says: "The Indians are all around us, shooting every man that ventures out of camp. They have taken all the stock in this vicinity, and stopped work on the railroad beyond here."

—A New York paper marvels at the fact that colored newsboys are tolerated in that city. Ten years ago the aristocracy of gamindom would not have permitted it.

—In St. Louis Wednesday, a wild steer escaped from one of the city stockyards, and went tearing through town at a furious rate, and gored a boy named Marshall, who is since reported dead. The animal was finally killed by the police.

—Visitors to Saratoga complain of the torture of brushing waiters, and if you don't pay them for it you incur their fiendish hatred, cold coffee, deafness of the head waiters, futile bell pulling, and a dreary dearth of clean towels.

—Cholera is raging in the northwestern part of Gallatin county, Illinois. Thirty cases and twenty deaths have occurred already, and the people are fleeing from the country. Death usually ensues in six or twelve hours.

TEXAS ITEMS.

—In Galveston they are discussing a project to license houses of ill fame.

—It is universally admitted that the cotton crop in the uplands of Texas will be unusually heavy this year.

—Some of the Texas papers say corn will sell in that state next fall at twenty-five cents a bushel. The pecan crop is reported to be unusually abundant.

—In Marshall, the other day, Judge Bonfol, collector of internal revenue, killed Col. Fowler, one of his deputies. The judge had demanded Fowler's resignation and a settlement of his accounts, which was refused. The deputy threatened his chief's life, and this led to a fatal affray.

—The Texas Ranger discourses as follows regarding the prominent newspapers of that state: We have watched the Galveston Bulletin with no little interest. Its editorials, always written with spirit and ability, we have closely scanned. We have compared, in our mind's eye, issue after issue of this journal with its contemporaries of Galveston and Houston. The Telegraph is snakey, though ably edited, but nobody knows whither it goeth. The Journal is located in Nigritia, and if farther off from the Bayou City, we should conclude the diamonds were black. But the Bulletin is steady; it is ascending to the dignity of the organ of public opinion. It looks above the troubled waters and sees in the future that the white race of these states are masters of their destinies. It yields to nothing but the logic of events. It is in nowise debauched by Cuffyism. It is exact in meeting justice to black and white. But of the future it affirms the doctrine so dear to America, that the great white race with its renown shall hold the helm. Better days are coming, when north and south will be better friends, and to hasten this bright day the Bulletin is without a rival in the journalism of this state.

—They have a stray horse association in Waco, McClennan county. The object of the association is to facilitate the members in recovering their estrays.

—The Austin Republican, an extreme radical paper, does not seem at all satisfied with the appointment of Gov. Pease.

—There is much sickness in Navarro county, mostly of a bilious character, with a tendency to congestion of the brain.

—The negroes of Brenham have been holding a tournament.

—Some seventy-five emigrants from Sweden have arrived at Georgetown, and more are coming.

—The State Gazette says of Indian depredations: A tabular statement, prepared from official sources by Gov. Throckmorton, and furnished the war department and the military commander of this district shows, that within the last two years the Indians have murdered 155 persons, wounded 24, and carried into captivity 43 men, women and children. Of the latter, 29 have been reclaimed. In addition to these, it is known that in the months of July past, seven others have been killed, four wounded, and seven carried off captives. The official report of the amount and value of stock lost is meagre, but the following is the total of the reports made: Horses, 4781; cattle, 30,468; sheep and goats, 2,000. This is far from being a complete statement of Indian depredations in Texas.

STATE ITEMS.

—There is great scarcity of water at Chattanooga. The wells are all going dry, and in case of fire there would be no water with which to supply the engines. So says the American Union of the 22d inst.

—Business is very dull in Chattanooga, and the weather, as here, hot and dry, and the roads awfully dusty.

The water works at Chattanooga have been ordered to be sold by the chancery court, which adjourned on Thursday, after a session of only four days.

—Capt. Alexander's company, of the Brownlow militia, was mustered out of service at Nashville Wednesday.

—The papers pretty generally mention refreshing rains during the last few days in the eastern and middle portions of the state, and say the corn crop was never better. Many farmers have already pulled their fodder, and hay and northern grain will be a drug on the market in this state during the coming winter; we have made plenty of grain and forage for home consumption, and fodder is superior for our stock to the best eastern hay.

—Several farmers with whom we have conversed speak of the extraordinary number of quails, (or patridge, as they are erroneously called,) hatched this summer, and inform us that they will be more abundant this autumn than for many years past. This is good news alike for sportsmen and epicures, and proves that a dry spring is not always necessary to produce fine broods of game birds.

The sultan's visit to Lady Palmerston was paid at his own special desire, and was the only private visit he paid in England. The sultan said that Lord Palmerston was the Englishman that he had most desired to see, and that as he had been removed by inexorable fate, it was his (the sultan's) wish to pay homage to his name by visiting her ladyship.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL, MEMPHIS, August 24, 1867.

The money market exhibits no sign of ease, while the demand for money for business purposes increases. Lenders are unwilling to discount, and in fact there are but few who are in a position to do so. Extreme ease in money circles prevails in London and in all European markets as well as in New York. In the latter city the demand for currency on western account is daily increasing, but is freely met. The closeness of currency here is but one of the bad results of the political position which our state is placed in.

The New York gold market opened at 41c, but declined to 40¾c by noon. Dealers in this market bid steadily during the day at 39½c for small amounts, and 40c for large pieces and lots. The sales, however, were mostly at the latter figure, and were in the aggregate not heavy.

Silver rules steadily at 30 to 32c buying for halves and quarters. Mexican pieces would bring 40c.

City scrip does not offer as largely as it was supposed, and the demand continues very fair. Brokers buy at 55 to 56c and sell at 57 to 58c.

There is no county scrip offered. Dealers are well supplied. We quote it nominally 65c buying, and 70 to 75c selling.

Police scrip is in good demand. There is little offered at the counter, where 72 to 73c are the buying rates. Selling at 75 to 77c.

Exchange is easier, and rates between dealers have declined to $1 50@$2 per $1000. The buying rate from customers is at par for cotton bills, and checking at ¼ to ½ on all eastern cities.

The stock market is dead. We have had no sale to report for the past four days.

Jay Cooke, who made his millions out of the sale of government bonds, upon which the poor pay usury, assuaged his conscience by the erection of an aristocratic church near Philadelphia. This sacred temple of bond aristocracy is very properly called "The Church of the Holy Five-Twenties."

A dry goods firm that failed some weeks ago in New York had paid a rent of over fifty thousand dollars; their business expenses, besides, were a hundred thousand dollars, and their private expenses were on a still larger scale. The cost of riotous living and unnecessary pomp and display in business would account for a bankruptcy.

The following decision has been rendered by the internal revenue department:

It is enacted in section 138 of the internal revenue act that the interest of any successor to arise from the sale of real estate under any trust for the use thereof shall be deemed to be a succession chargeable with duty under said act, and that said duty shall be paid by the trustee, executor, or other person having control of the funds. If A, dying testate since June 30, 1864, gives to B in his will a certain amount—for instance, one thousand dollars—and for want of personal property the executor sells real estate to obtain money for the payment of said sum, the moneys arising from such sale are to be deemed a succession, and the executor should be required to pay a succession tax thereon.

A New York exchange says:

Now that the western drain affords an outlet for national bank notes, all the the city, as well as the country banks, will be likely to present their matured compound interest notes for redemption. This will have the effect of reducing their legal reserve to the amount of the national currency received in exchange; but this is immaterial, under existing circumstances, to the banks, and it will throw into circulation some of the balance which has latterly been lying idle in the sub-treasury.

Cotton to-day was about as we left it on Friday, but is tending downwards. There are but one or two buyers of the week, and they are indifferent as to purchases, generally getting what they want at their own figures. The cotton coming in is mostly ordered sold without the expense of storage or insurance, so that the light orders on hand are easily filled at low rates. Receipts for the past week have been large. Prices have influenced the remnant of the crop to market, and we think that the coming week will show a very large falling off in receipts. Imports to-day, 106 bales. Shipments, 83 bales. Imports for the week, 617 bales. Shipments, 599 bales.

The market was fairly active to-day, and prices are unchanged in almost all things except corn, which is higher, owing to the light stock on hand. But the demand is no better. White is held at $1 20 to $1 25 in store and on levee; yellow, $1 12½ to $1 15. Meal is in large supply and has declined to $5 25 on levee and $5 50@5 75 from store. Oats are not stiff; 200 sacks were taken on landing at 63c. Hay is dull at $25 to $28 for new timothy and $20 for prairie. Bran is held at $18 to $20 in store; none on landing. Potatoes continue scarce at $4 to $5 50. Onions, scarce at $4 to $4 50. Meats are down and stock very good. Supplies are in light supply and held at $3 to $4, as to condition. Choice butter, 25 to 28c; common, 15 to 20c. Chickens, are scarce—young, $4 to $4 50; old, $6 to $7. Coffee, rio, 25 to 27½c. Eggs scarce at 22 to 23c. Flour, dull fine, $6 50 to $7; X, $9 to $10; XX, $10 50 to $11; XXX, $12 50 to $13; fancy brands, $13 50 to $14. Lard in tierces, 12½ to 13c; kegs, 14 to 14½c. A New Firearm.

A very extraordinary firearm is being exhibited in England. It will, say the admirers of the system, entirely supersede Colt's revolvers, Spencer's seven-shooters, the needle-rifle, the Enfield, or any other old or new inventions. The principle of it is, that in place of having the chamber of the proper calibre attached to the pistol or rifle, the arm is, as it were, a skeleton pistol, having barrel, stock and hammer. The cartridges are inserted in a separate horizontal elongated steel receptacle. When fired, not only the cartridges in this, but also the cartridges in separate cells, is inserted in the empty space left for it between the barrel and stock, and then, as fast as the finger can draw the trigger, it passes through of itself, until all the cartridges are fired. Another can then be inserted, and the firing continued at almost any rapidity, and for as long a period as there are receptacles of cartridges. A rifle could in this manner fire sixty shots a minute. A child could be reloading the empty cartridge cells with perfect safety. The principle is also applicable to big guns. The inventor is Mr. James Gale, the blind man who invented the system of making powder non-explosive.

Doche, the French actress, is coming hither.

RIVER MATTERS.

WEATHER AND RIVERS.

There was a stiff breeze yesterday, but in the sun it was very warm. The Ohio river is again falling, with less than three feet in the canal, though a light rain which fell at Pittsburg it is hoped may check the fall. The rivers in the territory of Arkansas are declining, but the information brought out by the Minnie is doubtless incorrect, as the Little Rock papers of the 22d announce five feet to the mouth and three to Fort Smith. A St. Louis exchange says of the rivers above: Within a week, if generally reliable signs don't fail, there should be but seven feet water out to Cairo. The Missouri cuts out, affording yet a while immunity from trouble in that stream. But the Illinois is deplorable—falling thirty-six inches or so to Naples, and scant thirty inches to Peoria. Above Peoria supposed unnavigable. We hear of no interruption of note to the upper Mississippi decline, yet navigation from St. Paul to St. Louis is attended with no difficulty yet, but the pilots are looking for trouble at an early day.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Business was very good on the levee to-day. The large amount of merchandise discharged in front of the St. Louis wharfboat added very much to the life thereabouts. The gangway of the Rowena was also well blocked up with White river freight. The Celeste got a little of the chicken pie; and take it all around, yesterday was not by any means a dull day for this very remarkably dull season.

We were called upon by the superintendent of the Memphis Dry Dock company, who assures us that our informant was in error concerning the damage to the Flora reported by us yesterday. She is straight and trim as a new steamer, and we take pleasure in setting the matter right. It was not published to do the company any injury, for we must confess we were hardly aware of its existence.

Mr. Sell Howell, western passenger agent of the Memphis and Charleston railroad, was a passenger on the Rowena, bound for Little Rock, where the company will open an office.

The Minneola will be in port to-day, and will leave for Cincinnati on Tuesday next. Capt. Miller commands.

The W. M. I. meet to-day at their rooms. Every member is expected to be present, as business of importance will be acted upon.

Steamboatmen mostly congregate around the Worsham house, in this city. All river men are epicures, and know where to find the best hotel. Mr. C. B. Galloway has no superior as a genial host.

The Belle Memphis is the regular St. Louis packet for Monday. Capt. Musselman commands and the office is in charge of George Dean.

The steamer Celeste leaves on Tuesday next for Arkansas river, with Capt. King upon the roof.

The steamer Mollie Hambleton will leave on Tuesday next for St. Francis river. Capt. Bowman commands and Tom Day is clerk.

The Shylock who with head erect with honest people mingles, should cease to shave his fellow man and go to shaving shingles. The lawyer would be better off, his science far less pliant, who owned a little farm in fee and made that farm a client. We have some doctors in our midst whose talents they should use, in practicing the healing art—heeling boots and shoes. The man who wants to buy cheap goods, in which there is no fault, should get them from Ed. Furguson, at the house of Martin Walt. The world should have its docket called and sluggards all defaulted, and those alone be upper ten whom labor hath exalted.

The good steamer Commercial, Capt. Ashford commanding, will leave for White river on Tuesday next at 5 p.m. Messrs. Morton and Smithers are in the office.

The splendid steamer Natoma will resume her place in the Vicksburg trade on Tuesday next, and will leave at 5 p.m. on that day, Capt. Edson commanding and Clay Rice in the office.

The Ingomar, Capt. Smith, running between Pisquemine and St. Martinsville, in connection with the Bayou Sara steamers, struck a snag about one and a half miles from Plaquemine, on the 11th inst., and sunk. The boat will be raised.

Mr. M. A. Bryson has returned to St. Louis from a tour in the northwest, and reports that there is everywhere very great interest in the projects of river improvement. Large and earnest meetings have been held, and the people are becoming fully aroused to the importance of the subject. It is a matter of vital consequence, not only to shippers and steamboat interests, but to the producers of the whole northwest, for they now have to pay in increased cost of transportation a heavy tariff on all their products, and therefore begin to realize the necessity of reaching a better market by the river.

The late steamboatmen's convention that convened at St. Louis are to hold an adjourned convention, or meeting, in Cincinnati, sometime next month. In the meantime, the active committees to revise and amend the steamboat law so as to present it to congress for its consideration have not been idle. They have had a number of blank forms printed and partially filled in, and are inviting the boatmen everywhere to consider and, if necessary, revise the new laws made up by the committee of the convention. This is likely to make the revision complete and satisfactory to all parties, and if it receives the approval of the boatmen as well as the convention, it is likely to be adopted by congress.

Dandruff is removed from the head, the Teeth whitened and cleaned, Plate and Jewelry cleaned, Sunburn of the pistol or rifle, the arm is, as it were, a skeleton pistol, having barrel, stock and hammer. The cartridges are inserted in a separate horizontal elongated steel receptacle. When fired, not only the cartridges in this, but also the cartridges in separate cells, is inserted in the empty space left for it between the barrel and stock, and then, as fast as the finger can draw the trigger, it passes through of itself, until all the cartridges are fired. Another can then be inserted, and the firing continued at almost any rapidity, and for as long a period as there are receptacles of cartridges. A rifle could in this manner fire sixty shots a minute. A child could be reloading the empty cartridge cells with perfect safety. The principle is also applicable to big guns. The inventor is Mr. James Gale, the blind man who invented the system of making powder non-explosive.

Doche, the French actress, is coming hither.

WANTED—THE PATENT

AURORA OIL.

We want men every where to study their own INTEREST. The right to manufacture and sell the Patent Aurora Oil in a single county will make more money to the purchaser in three months than the largest farm in your State will make in a whole year. The Aurora Oil actually costs less than one-half the price of Coal Oil, and the illuminating power of the Aurora Oil is as much superior to the Coal Oil as the Coal Oil is to a tallow candle, and is NO MORE explosive than a tallow candle. Any Lamp that will burn Coal Oil will burn the Aurora Oil. It does not smoke the chimney—it does not smell—it will not grease or stain the finest linen—not even white cloth. The material for its manufacture is inexhaustible, one man can make seventy-five barrels per day. No machinery required. We will pay your fare to and from the city of Memphis and this will be more, if we cannot prove all, and even more, than we have stated. A single county is a small fortune to the man of enterprise, and the right to a State is untold worth.

TO THE PATRONS OF THE APPEAL. Subscribers are requested to report any irregularities in the delivery of the APPEAL at the counting room. Carriers will be furnished weekly with certificates authorizing them to collect subscriptions.

ED. MANSFORD,
Sup't of Circulation.

MAMMOTH CAVE.—The letter of our correspondent, "Veritas," from Mammoth Cave, was received too late last night for insertion. We shall probably find room for it to-morrow.

FINE FREE LUNCH.—John Myers, agent, will spread a fine lunch from ten to eleven o'clock this morning at his saloon in the alley, near Front, between Madison and Monroe streets. All his friends are invited to call.

ECONOMY.—Our patrons are requested not to pay more than five cents to the newsboys for the DAILY APPEAL. We sell them over the counter at that price, and allow the boys a liberal commission, and do not propose that our customers shall be swindled, if we can help it.

TO BE EXAMINED.—A negro woman named Caroline Rutland, was up before Justice Black yesterday, charged with stealing the clothing of a colored neighbor. After a brief inquiry into the case, the supposed culprit was sent to a higher tribunal for trial.

DAYLIGHT SLEEPING.—One of the numerous Stephen's family, surnamed James, was found sleeping on court square yesterday afternoon, and furnished with (more legal if not more airy) quarters in the Adams street station. The recorder will see to his case this morning.

NEW COTTON.—Two new cotton bolls were left at our counting-room yesterday morning, raised by Mr. P. Boyle on the plantation of Mrs. Dr. Logan, on the Pigeon Roost road, near Buntyn's station. The staple is well developed, and it is claimed as the first and best of Shelby county for this season.

CONTINUED.—The two men named F. P. Sullivan and James Lynch, arrested yesterday charged with taking some three hundred dollars from a negro woman named Dudley, were brought before Justice Moore yesterday, when the case was continued until to-day. They propose to prove an alibi. In the meantime the accused are out on bonds.

PERSONAL.—Our highly esteemed friend, Capt. J. Harvey Mathes, news editor of the Louisville Courier, is in town, putting up at the Gayoso. It will be gratifying to his host of friends to know that he is looking better than ever. He leaves to-morrow to visit his relatives in East Tennessee. We wish him a safe voyage and speedy return.

FENIAN PIC NIC.—The Fenian brotherhood of this city, anxious to give to their numerous friends an out-door entertainment where all can enjoy themselves to the fullest extent, have advertised a grand pic nic to come off at the beautiful grounds on Vance street, tomorrow. The various committees of management and detail have been appointed, and a happy time is expected.

INDUCING EMIGRATION.—We received a call yesterday from the Rev. Hermiln Parker, who is soliciting subscribers to a work shortly to be published by him relative to the soil and agricultural inducements offered to those who desire to emigrate from Europe to this state. The work will be when published, freely circulated throughout Europe, and much good may be done thereby.

DIGEST OF THE DECISIONS OF THE SUPREME COURT OF TENNESSEE:—BY J. B. HEISKELL, Esq.: The first part of this valuable work, containing 144 pp. is now ready for delivery to subscribers. It contains the heads from 'Abandonment' to 'Appeal,' including, of course, the important one of 'Administration.' The work, so far, is admirably executed, and will be of great value to the profession. Subscriptions are received by J. P. Mellard, at No. 20 Madison street.

BURNT CORK.—It should not be forgotten that La Rue's famous minstrel band open to night at the Greenlaw opera house. They come well indorsed by the press, and owing to the present scarcity of legitimate amusements in our city, they should if worthy be well patronized. After having witnessed a first performance, we shall be able to give a correct opinion of their merits, etc.

BURGLARY.—Some evil disposed person, or persons, entered the house of Mr. A. J. Pollock, corner of Elliott and Hernando streets, on Sunday night, and succeeded in carrying off silver ware to the value of about two hundred dollars. Complaint has been made at police headquarters, and a full description of the stolen property given. Detectives have been set at work, but so far no trace of the thieves has been got.

STATE FEMALE COLLEGE.—MISS NORA BRADFORD.—We congratulate the patrons and friends of the State Female Institute near the Mississippi and Tennessee Railroad Depot, continuing 2½ acres each. For further information apply to or address J. W. S. BROWNE. Appeal office. jy21m

MAMMOTH CAVE.—The letter of our correspondent, "Veritas," from Mammoth Cave, was received too late last night for insertion. We shall probably find room for it to-morrow.

FINE FREE LUNCH.—John Myers, agent, will spread a fine lunch from ten to eleven o'clock this morning at his saloon in the alley, near Front, between Madison and Monroe streets. All his friends are invited to call.

ECONOMY.—Our patrons are requested not to pay more than five cents to the newsboys for the DAILY APPEAL. We sell them over the counter at that price, and allow the boys a liberal commission, and do not propose that our customers shall be swindled, if we can help it.

TO BE EXAMINED.—A negro woman named Caroline Rutland, was up before Justice Black yesterday, charged with stealing the clothing of a colored neighbor. After a brief inquiry into the case, the supposed culprit was sent to a higher tribunal for trial.

DAYLIGHT SLEEPING.—One of the numerous Stephen's family, surnamed James, was found sleeping on court square yesterday afternoon, and furnished with (more legal if not more airy) quarters in the Adams street station. The recorder will see to his case this morning.

NEW COTTON.—Two new cotton bolls were left at our counting-room yesterday morning, raised by Mr. P. Boyle on the plantation of Mrs. Dr. Logan, on the Pigeon Roost road, near Buntyn's station. The staple is well developed, and it is claimed as the first and best of Shelby county for this season.

CONTINUED.—The two men named F. P. Sullivan and James Lynch, arrested yesterday charged with taking some three hundred dollars from a negro woman named Dudley, were brought before Justice Moore yesterday, when the case was continued until to-day. They propose to prove an alibi. In the meantime the accused are out on bonds.

PERSONAL.—Our highly esteemed friend, Capt. J. Harvey Mathes, news editor of the Louisville Courier, is in town, putting up at the Gayoso. It will be gratifying to his host of friends to know that he is looking better than ever. He leaves to-morrow to visit his relatives in East Tennessee. We wish him a safe voyage and speedy return.

FENIAN PIC NIC.—The Fenian brotherhood of this city, anxious to give to their numerous friends an out-door entertainment where all can enjoy themselves to the fullest extent, have advertised a grand pic nic to come off at the beautiful grounds on Vance street, tomorrow. The various committees of management and detail have been appointed, and a happy time is expected.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

A MEETING YESTERDAY.

New Officers to be Appointed.

The Cotton Tax Question

The regular monthly meeting of the chamber of commerce was held yesterday afternoon. James Elder, Esq., vice-president, occupied the chair, Mr. S. Ridgely officiated as secretary.

The chairman stated that the principal business before the meeting was the appointment of a committee to nominate officers for the ensuing fiscal year. The clause relating to the appointment of this committee was as follows:

"A committee shall be appointed by the chamber, at its regular meeting on the fourth Monday in August in each year, for the purpose of nominating candidates for elective officers for the ensuing year. The names of the nominees shall be published in two or more of the Memphis daily papers, on or before the fifteenth day of September, and shall remain published until the fourth Monday of September."

Mr. W. S. Pickett moved that a nominating committee of five members be appointed by the chair. Carried; and

The chair appointed as such committee Messrs. Thomas H. Allen, Frank Mahan, S. B. Williamson, John T. Stratton and Sam Mosby.

On motion, the name of the chairman, Mr. H. Wade was added to the committee.

Mr. C. J. Phillips drew the attention of the members of the chamber to the fact that a meeting of the cotton factors had been held a few days ago, relative to making arrangements with Mr. Sheppard, one of the collectors of internal revenue in the state of Mississippi, to have the tax on the cotton brought from the state paid in this city. He stated that Mr. Sheppard claimed that the merchants and the chamber of commerce were indebted to him $2000 for assessor's salary and office rent, and unless that amount were paid an assessor to collect the tax would not be sent to this city during the present season to collect the same. He submitted a report of the committee appointed at the late meeting of cotton factors, recommending that the amount be paid.

The president said it was important that an assessor should be sent here from Mississippi to collect the tax.

On motion of Mr. Phillips the discussion of the matter was postponed till Thursday evening at 4 o'clock.

The chamber adjourned.

BOHEMIANS HEALTHSEEKING.—Raleigh, the polished courier, was never more highly honored than by giving his name to our quiet and uncontentious neighbor situated about nine miles away. Doctors have held the courtly knight responsible for many ills to the civilized world, in being instrumental in introducing the "Indian weed" to general notice. But if he was the means of destroying both body and mind, to a large extent, his namesake has the high honor of restoring shattered constitutions—if not as extensively, still with equal certainty. The properties possessed by the various springs at Raleigh have long been known to our citizens and by many at a distance, who, in times past, have sought their health-giving qualities. It is no wonder, therefore, that the ever-wide awake gang of our city hit upon the well to taste of these life-giving waters. A few of them, by invitation of Mr. Asa Hill, the very genial and polite passenger agent of the Memphis and Louisville road, who acted in the capacity of host, took passage on the excursion train, refined by Mr. A. A. Payton, the well known and efficient assistant superintendent, took possession of a car on the three p m. train, on Sunday, and were soon whirled along under the careful eye of Mr. Mike Waldron, one of the safest and most complete officers of this great railroad, to Wells' station. At this point, Mr. Ray, chief of the omnibus corps, became master of ceremonies, and after a pleasant ride of fifteen minutes, the party found themselves at home—we say at home, for all Memphis, it seemed, was out at Raleigh. As all things are great only by comparison, the party strolled along some specimens of the stimulating waters furnished to invalids and others by the kind Samaritans found so easily on all days (except the Sabbath) in our midst. A few hours were very pleasantly passed visiting the various springs. The families of many of our citizens are sojourning there for the summer, and each excursion train leaving Memphis carries a large number who go to taste the waters and enjoy a pleasant walk under the huge magnolias and towering oaks, which throw their refreshing shade everywhere. Raleigh is by far the pleasantest and most inviting resort within early reach of Memphis, and no better way could be found to pass a quiet and cool Sunday afternoon, than in the woods surrounded by the life giving waters which flow in unceasing murmurs from the many springs welling up in all directions.

HEALTH MATTERS.—As an evidence that our board of health are not asleep or misinformed as to the action of sister cities in sanitary measures, we clip the following from a Cairo paper:

The mayor yesterday morning received the following letter from Memphis. The health bill was promptly sent:

MEMPHIS, August 19, 1867.

Hon. James S. Thomas, Mayor of St. Louis:

Sir: I have heard it repeatedly stated that the remarkable exemption of St. Louis from the ravages of Cotton express line diseases is in a great measure attributable to the efficient workings of a new bill for the organization of a board of health, which passed the Missouri legislature last winter. Will you be kind enough to forward me a copy of said bill, that our board of health may examine its provisions?

I am, sir, respectfully, your ob't serv't,
J. C. KNODELL, M. D.,
Member of Memphis Board of Health.

We are satisfied that Memphis can boast of as an efficient board of health as any city in the southwest. Should they be properly supported by the city officials, they will prosecute the work given them to do in a vigorous manner.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—On Sunday morning a negro servant employed as nurse in the family of L. H. Mabb, Esq., who resides on second street, between Market and Exchange, attempted to hasten the kindling of a fire by the use of coal oil—the result proved very injurious to her and damaging to the stove. The oil took fire, bursting the can, and burning the servant badly. The stove was blown in pieces. The woman, becoming frightened, ran from the house and threw herself in a stream near by, and was taken out not only badly burned, but nearly drowned. Mr. Mabb and his family did everything in their power to assuage her pain. Medical attendance was called in, but it is feared that the poor creature cannot survive. The use of coal oil in this way has led to many accidents of a like character within the past few months.

A SOUTHERN BOOK.

HOUSE KEEPING MADE EASY, OR NEW FAMILY RECEIPT BOOK FOR THE KITCHEN: by Mrs. A. P. HILL.

Mrs. Hill is the widow of the late Hon. E. Y. Hill, of Georgia. She is a lady of splendid character, and one of Georgia's most accomplished housewives. This work was written by her at the suggestion of numerous friends acquainted with her superior house keeping attainments. Mrs. Hill was ruined in her fortune by the war, besides sacrificing two sons to the cause of Southern independence. She has published this valuable work for her support. It can be purchased at H. Wade & Co.'s, for $2, and is worth many times its price to house-keepers.

FAST TIME.—By information received yesterday, we learn that the Great Western Dispatch, or Cotton express line transport freight in seven days from New York to Memphis, or vice versa. The clever agent at this point, Enoch Taylor, Esq., whose office is at 304 Front street, will give any further information required. He always gives the most entire satisfaction, and it will doubtless acquit itself in the future as in the past.

CAUGHT AT IT.—A gay and festive young black mackerel entered the store of Mr. A. Blues, on Front street, yesterday, and attempted to rob the till. One of the inmates of the store caught him in the act and had him speedily brought before Mr. Justice Miller. The accused gave his name as John Henry. After a full hearing he was sent to the municipal court for trial, in default of bonds to the amount of five hundred dollars.

FALSE PRETENSES.—An old offender, who calls himself A. D. Friedenburg, was arrested yesterday on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses. It is said that two indictments are pending against him for former offenses. His prospect for a free ride to the capital is very promising.

LAW COURT.—Court met yesterday pursuant to adjournment, the Hon. Thos. G. Smith presiding. Mr. S. R. Garrison was sworn in as a practicing attorney of this court. But little business was transacted yesterday. The trial docket will be taken up on the peremptory call as far as the first eleven hundred cases. All persons summoned as jurors for this court for the present term are ordered to be present at ten a.m. The following is the calendar for to-day:

GROVER & BAKER'S
Celebrated
Elastic Stitch and Lock Stitch

SEWING MACHINES.
Why the Grover & Baker Machine is Best.
1. It is more simple, durable, and less liable to derangement than others.
2. It sews from ordinary spools, and no rewinding of thread is necessary.
3. It sews with equal facility all fabrics, the most delicate and the heaviest, and with all kinds of thread, silk, cotton or linen.
4. Its seam is so strong and elastic that it never breaks, even on the bias.
5. It finishes both sides of the seam by its own operation.
6. Its seam, though cut at every stitch stitch, remains firm, and neither runs or ravels in wear.
7. Its seam is more plump and beautiful, and retains its pliancy and elasticity after washing better than any other.
8. Its seam can be reversed in altering garments, after proper instruction, without picking or cutting them.
9. Watching and varying the tensions upon the threads necessary in other machines is unnecessary in this. The tension being once adjusted for the weight of the thread used, any amount of sewing may be done without change.
10. It makes beautiful embroidery without any change of machine, and may by it a variety of threads of suitable sizes and colors for this purpose. It is the only machine that both embroiders and sews p rfectly.

MEMPHIS APPEAL

[COMMUNICATED.]
TELEGRAPHIC.

Editors Memphis Appeal:

Knowing that the public, especially the business public, is peculiarly interested in obtaining the latest, fullest and most reliable telegraphic intelligence, through the medium of the daily papers, and also being aware that publishers are at an enormous expense for dispatches, without beginning to get their money's worth, I propose to furnish, at half present cost, more readable news, a better style of news and more of it, than any agent of any associated press or "any other man" can or dare do.

In furtherance of this project and with a view to future negotiations, I beg leave to submit the following telegrams, as specimens of my ability in the news line, leaving to your candid judgment, if they are not a vast improvement on what you are in the habit of receiving from day to day. GUNPOWDER PLOT AT MEMPHIS.

NASHVILLE, TENN., August 27, 4 a.m. A letter from 'Squire Blackstone, commissioner of registration for Fleabottom county, appears in the Highflyer last evening, announcing that sixteen rebel gorillas had made a raid upon an inoffensive freedman named Wade Giddings, at Stubtown P. O. They cleaned out his hen-roost, leaving not so much as a tail feather to tell the tale, and locking Mr. Giddings up in the stable with a sick mule, left in the direction of Cumberland Gap, vowing vengeance.

One of the scoundrels was heard to remark that if he didn't reach the "last stitch" soon he would die for want of water.

The same gang of desperadoes is reported to have overhauled a tin peddler, near Hogshead Bluff, and compelled him to renounce all allegiance to the western reserve of Ohio, upon a copy of Ariel's new book on the "nigger."

A reign of terror prevails all over Fleabottom. It's the only rain they have had in six weeks.

Gen. Cooper, at last accounts, was proceeding at the head of a regiment to this new scene of hydra-headed treason, and threatens to hold the citizens of the county responsible for these outrages upon the magna charta of South American liberties.

LATER, 4½ a.m.—Gov. Brownlow has telegraphed the Springfield Republican that its no such thing.

OMAHA, August 26.—Ten Indian runners arrived in the suburbs to-day, with dispatches from Big Boot Heel, chief of the Chingaroras.

The runners were nearly out of breath and on account of fatigue and the great heat were unable to get nearer than Pendergrast's grocery on the Squawmee trail.

Big Boot Heel had signified his willingness to confer with the next general at Lone Jack.

Later.—Big Boot Heel is again on the war path—dead drunk. Came very near being run over by the Denver stage.

BERLIN, August 31.—The Independence Belge, in advance of the cable, announces all quiet on the Potomac.

Bismark denies the rumor of a rupture and will not order a truss.

It is now confidently asserted that the Germanic Confederation is a dead cock in the pit, on account of the high price of buck beer in Bavaria.

The diet of worms has adjourned. The highest premium for vermifuge was awarded to the late Dr. Jaynes, of Philadelphia, United States army.

PARIS, Sept. 1.—Bourse—on a burst.—Rentes 47. (Lower than Memphis by 300 per cent.)

On account of the decline in rents, the price of board at the Grand Exposition has been reduced to ten sous a drink.

The Emperor has awarded to Nadab Squirter, of Boston, an imperial gold medal for his Self-adjusting, Low-Pressure Boudoir Spittoon!

WASHINGTON, August 25.—It is credibly reported upon undoubted authority, and universally believed in certain quarters, that several other changes may or may not take place in the cabinet.

The president in this contingency will buy his imported liquors of Minter & Walker.

Grant is reticent.

It is not generally believed that order No. 10 will be enforced, unless Gen. Sickles gives place to some friend of the lamented Stanton, in which case it probably will, should not Mr. Johnson and Mr. Grant come to logger-heads, which is more or less involved in doubt, according to the opinion of competent witnesses in the Surratt trial.

KNOXVILLE, TENN., August 26.—The bad feeling in Franklin has been traced to imprudent indulgence in green watermelon.

SARATOGA, August 25.—The best single dash of the season was made here this morning about 3 o'clock, over the Pharoah course, by "John Morrissey" member of congress. He busted the bank in 2:22.

The Whippersnapper association intend to match Lord Dundreary against Lady Holdfast, best mile heats, in harness, $10,000 a side. Race to come off at or about the time of the Old School Synodical convention.

In the great crim. con. case of Dusenberry vs. Dusenberry, a former coachman of Mrs. D's, named Hubbigubs, swore positively to-day as to seeing the boots on the piazza. This startling development is the all-absorbing topic of conversation in fashionable circles this evening.

Gen. Puflanblore, a hero of the first battle of Bull Run, cut his throat at the Congress hall about fifteen minutes ago. No cause is assigned for the rash act, as the general had been in very lively spirits for about ten days.

PHILADELPHIA, August 26.—Jacob Van Gobbitz, convicted in April of murdering his wife, mother and three children, with a carpenter's adze, has been pardoned by the governor. It is clearly established that Gobbitz at the time was laboring under a species of homicidal insanity.

FIVE POINTS, N. Y., August 25. Barney Aaron, having been resurrected from the dead, is said to be negotiating another professional interview with Sam Colyer. The glorious old democracy of the "bloody sixth" are already canvassing Barney's chances for congress. Should he again prove victorious on the field of honor, his nomination is a fixed fact. These movements have induced a slight advance in tangleshead.

Napoleon utterly repudiates the quadrilateral alliance. Says instead of being quadrilateral, it is a one sided thing. In consequence of this unexpected announciamento from the Tuilleries, the Fenian ambassador has demanded his passports. Things look imminent.

Information has reached the state capital of a conspiracy at Memphis to blow up Consul Commissioner Davis with a torpedo. Pike, Gallaway and other unreconstructed rebels are strongly implicated. The conspiracy surpasses in atrocity the celebrated gunpowder plot.

Brownlow telegraphs that such disbelief hostility to the best government the country ever sat on, shall not go unpunished, and that Shelby county has already experienced too much magnanimity at the hands of the state authorities.

ALABAMA.

—Among the postoffices recently established or re-opened in this state, are the following: Franklin and Milgrove, in Henry county; Osinnappa, in Chambers; and Barnes' Cross Roads and Ozark, in Dale county.

—A gentleman living in Greene county has offered his entire crop of corn for thirty-five cents a bushel in the field; and it is said that any amount of corn can be engaged in the canebrake region at fifty cents a bushel.

—The Tribune of Friday records the melancholy suicide, by shooting with a pistol, of Mr. George Everlein, at Mobile, on the day before. The self-murder was committed in the presence of his wife, who vainly tried to wrench the pistol from his grasp, but he bade her good-bye, and, placing the muzzle in his mouth, fired the fatal shot. Business trouble was the cause of the rash act, and the deceased leaves several children and his wife in destitute circumstances.

—Gen. Clanton and ex Gov. Watts were in Mobile on the 20th inst., on their return from Texas, whither they have been to examine the country, with a view of removing to that state.

—The Huntsville Independent of the 23d chronicles the probability of a grand tournament at Larkinsville, Jackson county, very soon; proceeds to be devoted to erecting a church. The same paper says of the crops: The crops of Jackson are splendid Early corn is made and recent rains will secure a bountiful yield from the later planting. The cotton fields are unusually prolific, and altogether the prospects of farmers in the county were never better.

RIVER MATTERS.

WEATHER AND RIVERS.

The weather since Saturday night has been warm and dry. Rain is much needed. The river at St. Louis is falling, with not more than eight feet to Cairo. The Ohio is going down slowly, with less than three feet in the canal at Louisville. The Arkansas is low, with four feet to the mouth at last advices from Little Rock, where they had but one arrival in a week. The Van Buren recently arrived there from Fort Smith, reported twenty inches at McLean's bottom and Van Buren bar. White river is falling, with five and a half feet to Devall's Bluff, four and a half feet to Augusta and about thirty-two inches to Jacksonport. The St. Francis is getting quite low.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Business was fair on the creek yesterday. Cotton was an item of some little importance—the Hambleton having brought out 138 bales from the St. Francis. There was the usual stir about the St. Louis wharfboat, and more than the usual amount at the City wharfboat, where the Ames and Shreve had deposited about three or four hundred tons of miscellaneous freight.

The Starlight, with Capt. Frank Davidson in command, will leave for Cincinnati on Wednesday next.

It will be seen that the magnificent passenger packet Henry Ames will enter the Memphis and New Orleans trade on the 3d of October next. The Ames is already well known as a popular, safe and swift packet, and when she comes out will be very much improved in every way. Capt. J. Frank Hicks assumes command, and will, no doubt, make the Ames a favorite with shippers and travelers. Her present master, Capt. Tom. Crawford, goes in the office, and is too well known in the trade to need eulogy. The Ames will be a fixed in statution, and we bespeak for her a liberal share of patronage.

The J. S. McCune dropped down to the Star wharfboat last night.

Capt. Dan Musselman is again too unwell to command his steamer, the Belle Memphis, and has returned to Pennsylvania. Capt. Abe Rowland is also suffering from disease and seeking health ashore.

Capt. Duffer, of the McCune, was in town yesterday. He speaks of putting the McCune in the White river trade as a Thursday packet, but we entertain the belief that there are, or will be, side-wheel boats enough in that region to do all the business.

The U. S. mail packet Gleaner gets away to-day for Arkansas river. Capt. King commands. Fenwick and Patterson are clerks.

The fine packet Natoma, in place of the St. Patrick, will leave to-day for Vicksburg and the beads. She has proved herself a good and substantial packet, and the enterprise of Capt. Edson in securing her during the temporary disablement of the regular packet, has added much to his popularity in the trade. Dr. Clay Rice is chief clerk.

The swift and very elegant steamer City of Alton is the regular St. Louis packet to-day at 5 p.m. Capt. Sam. McPheeters has no peer as a gallant and worthy gentleman, and we commend his packet to all travelers. Mr. McCreight is in charge of the office.

Chickens might forget to crow on Tuesday morning, the river forget to run down hill and the sun forget to set, but this derangement would not prevent the old reliable Cumberland from leaving on Tuesday for White river. She carries passengers at half fare to the Augusta tournament, and never fails to connect at the Bluff with the train for Little Rock. Capt. Ashford is master and Messrs. Morton, Smithers and Robinson are clerks.

The Mollie Hambleton, Capt. Bowman, leaves to-day at 5 p.m. for St. Francis river. Tom Day is pursur.

The gay Minneola, Capt. Miller, leaves for Cairo and Cincinnati on Wednesday next.

The good Gleaner, Capt. King commanding, is the regular Arkansas river mail packet for to-day.

The Great Republic will go on the ways at Mound City for repairs.

On Wednesday night last, at St. Louis, a deckhand named Fitzgerald, on the steamer Pauline Carroll, got into a fight with two of the cooks, Sullivan and Smith, in the course of which Fitzgerald was thrown overboard and drowned. Sullivan was arrested for manslaughter.

Linton is the name of Capt. J. Snowden's new steamer, now at Pittsburg, and intended for the Evansville and Cumberland trade. Full length cabin; draws 12½ inches, light; cylinders 12 inches in diameter, with 4 feet stroke; two boilers, 38 inches in diameter, 20 feet long. The machinery is furnished with all the latest and most improved parts.

A Mr. I. N. Jackson, of Mound City, has invented a wheel for propelling steamboats. It is built on an entirely original plan, and in the model works splendidly, and no reason presents itself why it will not work equally as well on a large scale. In his model time to time the speed now obtained by boats may be had with the same power. The model obtains its power from the spring of a clock, and the speed thus obtained is wonderful to behold. The new invention consists of an endless chain, passing around two wheels of like diameter, on which the wheels rest in horizontal position, with their axles parallel.

Capt. Isaac Jones, of the Olive Branch, on his down trip purchased the patent right and model of a steamer from a citizen of Cairo. It is also propelled by the works of a clock, and has the rare property of making a landing without a pilot. Our St. Louis cotemporary, from whom we get the Mound City item, should call on Capt. Jones and investigate his model.

The following dispatch was recently received in an eastern city:

MILWAUKEE, August 15.—Please telegraph me at once if Chicago reports having a sea serpent. If so, Milwaukee also has one. Chicago never led this town, and never will. I will send full particulars when I receive your reply.

The following letter, from Mrs. L. McCormick to Capt. W. B. Nowland, of the steamer Ozark, explains itself:

Sir: It affords me much pleasure to present to you, in the name of the ladies of the Baptist church, the accompanying flag, which was this day carded to you at their late fair as the master of the most popular steamer on the Arkansas river.

The two committees appointed respectively by the chamber of commerce and the steamboat captains' association of New Orleans, met in that city a few days ago, and after two hours of conference drew up modified forms of the bills of lading, which are to be submitted to the association for their acceptance.

There was a better demand in the cotton market to-day than on Saturday, but at reduced prices. There are a fair list of orders limited and unlimited, and some discretionary—but buyers are disposed to wait, and holders are not so eager to sell as on Saturday, so that fewer "bargains" were made to-day. Owing to the arrival of the local packets receipts were heavy since Saturday, but it must be remembered that no more will pass by river until Friday next, and it is not probable the total will be as large as last week. Receipts in past 48 hours, 213 bales; no shipments.

The general markets were tolerably active to-day and prices remain about stationary. Meats are tending downwards, and will no doubt fall at least ½c upon the first arrival from above. Corn is dull at 70 for white and 75 for yellow, with but a light stock and demand. Meal is in fair supply and sold at $5 25 to $5 50 on the levee. Oats are firm at 66 to 70c in new gunnies. A lot was offered at 65c in old gunnies. Hay is dull and has declined to $24 for St. Louis timothy; prairie, $20. Bran, $16 per ton. Potatoes are not plentiful; selling at $3 75 to $4 50. Onions, scarce $4 to $5. Apples are in light supply and held at $3 to $4, as to condition. Choice butter, 25 to 28c; common, 15 to 20c. Cheese, scarce and selling, 15 to 16c. Eggs, $5 50; old, $7 50 to $8. Coffee, Rio, 25 to 27½c. Eggs scarce at 23 to 24c. Flour, doll. fine, $6 50 to $7; X, $9 to $10; XX, $10 50 to $11; XXX, $12 50 to $13; fancy brands, $13 50 to $14. Lard in tierces, 13 to 13½c; kegs, 14½ to 15c. Mess pork, $25 50 to $26; mess beef, $16 50; clear sides, 17 to 17½c; shoulders, 13½ to 14c; canvassed hams, 18 to 20c; sugar cured, 21 to 22c. Salt, $3 25 per bbl. Sugar, 17 to 20c for crushed and clarified; 14 to 17c for brown. Western Reserve cheese, 14 to 16c; factory, 15 to 16c. Whisky, common, $1 45 to $2.

The regular annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce took place to-day, and was well attended. The proceedings will be found in our local column.

The season is rapidly approaching when the question of the movement of the southern cotton will be a subject of considerable importance. In ordinary times large advances are required for the purpose, and planters were in the habit of obtaining advances on the maturing crop. But this resource can now only be available to a limited extent, owing to the deficiency of capital and confidence in the general want of currency in the south.

Among the many obstacles in the way of rapid removal to market, we give a few from the Financial Chronicle:

First, there is the injudicious levy of the tax on cotton. The mere prepayment of the tax imposes a heavy strain upon the resources of planters and jobbers. A sum of from fifteen to twenty millions of dollars is required to be paid in taxes before the staple can reach its ultimate destination. That certainly in the present prostrate condition of the south operates as a serious check to the forward movement of the crop, cannot be doubted. Then again the crop, according to law, cannot be removed from the district until the tax has been duly paid, and until the cotton has been stamped and marked. A bale of untaxed, unstamped cotton, for example, cannot reach Mobile from any district in Georgia outside of that city. This is a very great hardship. The southern revenue districts are remote and sparsely settled, and in a market open like the light draught steamers only ascend the rivers once a year to carry away the crop. If the cotton is not ready for delivery through failure or inability to procure the attendance of a government officer to receive the tax and stamp the bales, the chances of a market are often indefinitely postponed.

This delay is to be deprecated also in view of the changed labor system of the south. The cotton crop has been to a considerable extent raised on shares, the freedmen and the planters receiving a certain proportion of the proceeds. According to orders from the freedmen's bureau wages are to be a lien on the crops, and cotton cannot be removed until the freedmen have received their wages on shares in cash. Waiving all consideration respecting the motives of effect of this order, it is apparent that in many cases it will probably result injuriously to workmen and employers, as only a very limited number of planters are likely to be in a position to pay for the labor in advance of the sale of the staple.
